Police Use Guns, Gas On Rioters

BRUSSELS (AP) — Wild rioting broke out in the big industrial city of Liege today. Police used guns, sabres and tear gas to hurl back striking demonstrators.

A policeman, a fireman, and at least six civilians were injured as about 1,000 strikers attacked a railway station, a post office, a fire truck and police cars.

The flareup in the industrial south came as the government claimed the 18-day-long strikes had collapsed in two of Belgium's nine provinces and socialist leaders tried to find a formula to end the costly walkouts.

The rioting in Liege erupted after a fiery speech by Andre Renard, union official and one of the prime leaders of the strikes against the government's austerity program.

Hurrying from the mass meeting when they heard Renard urge them to continue the strike, demonstrators smashed in the front of a new railway station. They hurled desks and equipment from the windows of a nearby post office.

Grenades thrown. Police charged in, tossing tear gas grenades, and the strikers fell back, hurling stones as they fled.

They overturned two police cars. One caught fire. A fireman was injured by a flying brick.

Mounted police charged the milling crowd with drawn sabres. A striker was knocked unconscious.

The main body of demonstrators then rallied and headed for the main business district.

Troops moved in carrying automatic weapons and opened fire, apparently at the ground. A civilian fell with a leg wound.

Demonstrators advanced on the Liberal newspaper Le Meuse, which has opposed the strike. They smashed windows and hauled down a neon sign.

When demonstrators tried to fight their way into the newspaper office, police opened up again with tear gas. Tank trucks with high pressure hoses rumbled up and shot water on the demonstrators, who scattered.

Government spokesman Pierre Harmel said the strike is over in the provinces of Limburg in the north and Luxembourg in the south and in the northern cities of Ostend and Alost.

LAOS COMMISSION MAY RECONVENE

'STAND BY' LETT TOLD

By TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — British Columbia Supreme Court Chief Justice Sherwood Lett has been told to stand by for the possible reconvening of the three-nation Laos Peace Commission.

Mr. Justice Lett was a member of the original commission, which was disbanded in 1958.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Green suggested Thursday night the commission return to Laos informally to report on the situation. The commission was created by the Geneva conference on Indochina in 1954 to supervise the armistice. (See Page 6.)

It is understood the United States is now swinging around to the Canadian view that the supervisory commission is needed to cool off tempers in the Far East.

The Canadian government believes another big-power Geneva Conference on the Laotian problem should be convened, and must be convened, to ensure a lasting settlement.

"Until the big powers agree not to provide arms to the opposing factions there can be no permanent solution to the Laotian problem," said a government spokesman. "That can only be arranged through another Geneva convention."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A small fire that was believed to have been extinguished suddenly erupted into a general alarm blaze in the Thomas Hotel early today and at least 18 persons were killed. Fire officials said the toll may go higher.

Firemen said the blaze started in the first floor room of Raymond Gorman, 62, and ordered him arrested on suspicion of manslaughter.

Gorman and 37 other persons, including two policemen and firemen were treated at emergency hospitals for smoke inhalation and other injuries suffered as the fire turned the five-story low-rate hotel into a huge Roman candle.

Most of the 150 occupants of the half-century-old building were elderly pensioners.

Gorman admitted freely to newsmen that he had been drinking the night before and "I was feeling no pain." Witnesses said the fire started when Gorman dropped a cigarette in his mattress.

Fire Chief William Murray said Gorman and a neighbor thought they had extinguished the fire and went back to sleep. But the mattress rekindled, causing the inferno, Murray said.

One man tried to lower himself from the fourth floor on knotted bed sheets. The improvised rope broke and he fell to the street, breaking his back and legs. "My dog didn't get out," he screamed.

A hero of the disaster was clerk Harry Gould, 71, who dashed from his second-floor room and banged on doors to rouse tenants.

Another hero was night clerk Clarence Broderick, 53, who stayed at the switchboard and called room after room, waking tenants.

One survivor, Mrs. Wanda Boyer, was taken to an emergency hospital carrying a box containing the suffocated body of her pet dog. She told her husband, James, 48, lost his grip on a windowsill and fell four floors.

"I tried to hold him, but I couldn't and he fell down the light well," she said.

Firemen broke into her room and led her safely down an aerial ladder.

Most of the dead were trapped in their rooms and killed when they inhaled gases.

Hair-Trigger Tension Marks Algerian Voting

ALGIERS (Reuters) — A Moslem voting official was assassinated today about 80 miles east of Algiers as three days of balloting began on President de Gaulle's Algerian self-determination referendum.

But in villages within 60 miles of Algiers, the nationalist insurgents call for a boycott of polls by Moslems was largely ignored, a mid-day check showed.

The assassinated man was the president of a voting station at Heirreta, near Setif, 80 miles east of here. Earlier, two attempts to stop a speech by de Gaulle on the referendum from being broadcast in Algeria failed.

Plastic charges were twice used to try to wreck the power line feeding a transmitter at nearby Ouled Fayed but the radio went on transmitting and de Gaulle's speech, his last on a campaign urging support for the referendum, was relayed in French, Arabic and Kabyl languages.

Balloting began slowly with only a trickle of voters turning up in rural areas. Nationalist insurgent leaders have called for a complete boycott on the referendum by Moslems.

Capt. Walter P. Moran said he encountered the trouble on the afternoon of Dec. 16, some five hours after the collision over Staten Island.

BENNETT PUTS 'IF' ON PACT WITH OTTAWA

B.C. will go along with the Columbia River scheme with the federal government as long as it can guarantee power will be available in the Vancouver area at 3.7 mills, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today.

He was commenting on his order for a full investigation of Peace and Columbia River costs and benefits by the B.C. Energy Board.

"Of course we won't hold up signing the agreement with the federal government," he said, "if power can be delivered to Vancouver at the price promised by Fulton of 3.7 mills."

He referred to a Times editorial of Thursday which said Federal Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton had pledged last year that Columbia power could be delivered at that price.

Asked if he thinks such a guarantee would be forthcoming from Ottawa, Mr. Bennett replied: "I wouldn't think they'd refuse."

GOV'T DID NOTHING TO EASE CRITICAL SITUATION

Ruby McKay Tells Why She Quit

A public plea for the B.C. government to alleviate a "critical" situation in child welfare was made today by Ruby McKay, who resigned her post provincial post over lack of staff and money.

Miss McKay today told the Times why she quit as superintendent of child welfare for the provincial government.

She said "it was no longer possible in the face of the government's restrictive policies to fulfill the responsibilities of superintendent of child welfare."

The job simply couldn't be done without more staff and money, she said.

Despite many personal pleas for help, the government did nothing, she said.

So today she asked British Columbians to "communicate their wishes to the government."

Miss McKay's work ended Dec. 31. After 16 years as superintendent, during which time she received international recognition for her work, she handed in her resignation last June.

There was no acknowledgment from the government, and her action did not come to light until October. Her successor, Mary King, was appointed on Dec. 3.

No one has been named to succeed Miss King as deputy superintendent.

Miss McKay, in her statement, said the few dedicated workers carrying on the program of child welfare have been so overloaded that necessary child care and adoptions could not be kept up.

"It was impossible to cope with the mounting number of families who needed help," she said.

GO TO GOVT
Since her resignation became known, she said, she has received many letters from the public, and in view of their interest, she has called on them to press their protests to the government.

Miss McKay today will be honored at a special reception at University of B.C. in Vancouver. She will then take a holiday.

Although she has had a number of offers from outside B.C. Miss McKay has not decided on a new job. She says she does not intend to forsake child welfare.

Last Word to Nixon —It's 'Kennedy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice-President Richard M. Nixon had the last word today on the 1960 presidential election. The word was that he lost.

"I now declare John F. Kennedy elected President," Nixon told a joint session of the Senate and House after presiding over the official counting of the electoral vote.

Nixon proclaimed the news with good grace and, in the process of the counting, got some laughs.

Under the law and constitution, it fell to Nixon to preside over the joint session.

The count came out as expected. There were 303 votes for Kennedy and his running mate, Lyndon B. Johnson, and 219 for Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Nixon, with a smile that might have come harder, a day or so after last Nov. 3, announced the totals and pronounced Kennedy and Johnson duly elected.

Then, in a year or two, if offspring ensue, there'll be plenty of gnus for both the 200s.

Special Times Feature

THE KENNEDY STORY

This is the second in a series by correspondent and author Joe McCarthy from his book, "The Remarkable Kennedy." It gives a complete picture of President-elect John Fitzgerald Kennedy up to the moment of election, Nov. 3, 1960. The series is continuing in The Times daily.

By JOE MCCARTHY

When the smoke of the campaign battle cleared after the election of John F. Kennedy as president of the United States, political experts tried to explain why so many of the nation's voters had changed their minds about the boyish-looking 43-year-old candidate who had seemed only a few months back too young and too inexperienced for the White House.

The commentators agreed that the Kennedy-Nixon television debates turned the tide toward the Democratic ticket.

Maturity Revealed

Not that the debates did Richard Nixon serious harm, but they showed Kennedy's quickness of mind and confident decisiveness and made him seem as mature and as well-informed as the Californian on foreign and domestic issues.

This demolished what had been up until September the strongest argument against Kennedy—his youth and "inexperience." One of the Republicans who had been doubtful about the wisdom of entering the debates was Nixon himself.

His campaign advisors were sure that he would show up Kennedy, but Nixon remembered clearly a debate between himself and Kennedy back in 1947, when they were freshmen Congressmen.

'Not That Easy'

The two young members of the House of Representatives traveled to Pennsylvania to argue the Taft-Hartley labor act. Only a few people turned out to listen to them. But Nixon, a champion debater in high school and college, found

... knew son had it

Kennedy a tough opponent to handle.

"Everyone expects me to wipe the floor with this guy," Nixon said before the first of the TV debates 13 years later, "but it's not going to be that easy."

Kennedy's impressive performance in the debates came as no surprise to people who have known him through the years. Paul Fay Jr. of San Francisco, who served in Kennedy's PT boat squadron in the South Pacific during the Second World War, says that the officers at his base used to gather in Kennedy's quarters every night to listen to him talk about world affairs, politics and the war.

"It was more fun than playing poker," Fay says.

Although he is often tense and restrained while delivering a prepared speech before a large audience, Kennedy has always sparked in the extemporaneous talk of a question-and-answer forum, such as that of the campaign debates.

He can argue at length with a fast presentation of facts and figures on almost any subject that is thrown at him.

In 1951, when Kennedy came to a television studio in Washington to make his first appearance on "Meet the Press," he confided to Lawrence Spivak, the producer of the show, that he was planning to run for the senate against Henry Cabot Lodge. Spivak advised him to wait for a few years.

Two Requisites

But after listening to Kennedy's adeptness in handling the varied questions from the "Meet the Press" panel, Spivak turned to Jack's administrative assistant, Ted Reardon, and said, "He could beat Lodge tomorrow."

The president-elect's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, says that the confident decisiveness and the extensive factual knowledge of current issues that his son displayed in the campaign debates are the main requisites of the presidency.

"I've seen the president's job from the inside and I know what it requires," says Joe Kennedy, who was one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's top aides. "You need a man in the White House with two things—wide factual knowledge and the ability to make decisions, and to make them stick."

(Compiled From Times News Services)

HOLLYWOOD—Actress June Allyson wants to end her 15-year marriage to actor-director Dick Powell, lawyer Jerry Giesler said Thursday.

The lawyer said he will file a divorce suit for the 37-year-old actress in Los Angeles within a few weeks.

The actress will charge mental cruelty. No specific charge will be made, Giesler said.

Powell, 56, now is in Europe.

MANCHESTER—A 13-year-old English boy asked in a letter to The Guardian Thursday whether the United States has just started trusting in God—or had stopped trusting.

Peter Mark Barter wrote to the newspaper: "I was sent two $1 bills for Christmas."

"One has on it, 'In God We Trust,' and the other one hasn't."

"Which was printed first? 'Has the United States just started to trust in God or stopped trusting Him?'"

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—A helicopter was needed Thursday to rescue Paul Anka, the young rock 'n' roll star from a mob of fans here.

The singer, a native of Ottawa, was appearing at a music store when fans swarmed around him.

Police said the howling youngsters tore down an autograph booth where Anka was singing record albums and forced him to flee to the roof of the building.

LONDON—Alan Smith, 8, decided to emulate Santa Claus Thursday in the chimney of a partly demolished house in London's Bermondsey district. Half way down he got stuck and couldn't move either way.

JUNE ALLYSON

"I can't understand it," said Alan—somewhat bruised—after the fire brigade pulled him out. "Santa is much fatter than me and he never gets stuck."

His parents gently explained the full truth.

ROME—It is a sin to dance the cha-cha or rumba, but rock 'n' roll may be less justful, according to a Dominican friar who has made a study of modern dancing.

The waltz, polka and mazurka passed his scrutiny with a clean bill of moral health. The friar says the postures, movements and sways of these Spanish-American dances are defined as "lascivious" by experts, and "notably offended the virtue of modesty."

RUBY McKAY

Here is the full text of her statement:

"Since there may be some misconception as to why I left the social welfare department, I would like to explain my action."

"I submitted my formal resignation in June, 1960, giving the customary six months notice to enable the government to plan for necessary replacements. I had reached my decision to leave for one reason—and one reason only. It was no longer possible in the face of the government's restrictive policies to fulfill the responsibilities of superintending of child welfare, as I saw them, toward some 5,000 children yearly whose own parents cannot care for them."

OVERWHELMING

The duties assigned to the valiant and dedicated staff throughout the province were overwhelming. A staff twice the size would not be enough. No recognition was being given to the extra heavy workloads resulting from the growing unemployment situation. Workers trying to meet the needs of the many unemployed assistance applicants found it impossible to cope with the mounting number of families and children who needed their help.

In addition, resources needed for the care of children were not forthcoming. Seriously disturbed children, urgently needing treatment in a properly controlled setting, presented heartbreaking problems to staffs who could offer only foster home care.

INAPPROPRIATE

Facilities for the care of the retarded child were too few and too often totally inappropriate plans had to be made for boys and girls in this group. It becomes almost impossible for staffs to process new foster home applications.

It was equally difficult to keep in touch with the child, his parents and his foster parents, to give the help each needs if placement of a child is to be successful.

"Families applying to adopt a child had to wait months and in some instances years before a worker could even acknowledge their applications."

"And yet daily, children who desperately needed the security of adoption were having to be placed in paid temporary foster homes. Overtime had become the rule for staff because of the workers' dedication to their jobs and their earnest desire as far as humanly possible to meet the needs of children."

"My many written reports of these critical situations and my recommendations had failed to bring about the necessary changes in policy and I therefore reached the decision to resign."

"I have been much heartened by the expressions of concern for the child welfare program which I have received these past few weeks from persons in all walks of life and in all parts of the province."

"I know the people of British Columbia want to serve our children well, and that they have faith in the program which has been built up over the years throughout this province."

"However, child welfare services can only be as good as communities want them to be and my purpose in making this statement is to say to the people of B.C. that they must communicate their wishes to the government, and through their local representative in the legislature, see that the standard of service they desire for children is maintained."

"Given this support the superintendent can, and with credit to her office will, fulfill the duties and responsibilities required of her by legislation, and so ensure that the interest of each child is served."

PERU OUTLAWS COMMUNISTS

LIMA (AP)—The Peruvian Senate Thursday approved and passed on to the Chamber of Deputies a bill outlawing the Communist party and any subversive groups in Peru.

The government-sponsored bill amends Peru's criminal code and provides jail sentences of two to 16 years for violators. The Senate got the bill before Peru broke diplomatic relations with Cuba last Friday.

Anti-Semitic Charge 'Nonsense'—Prober

TORONTO (CP)—Editorial matter distributed by the Toronto public relations firm of Johnston, Everson & Charlesworth was described at a Toronto and District Labor Council meeting Thursday night as anti-semitic.

The firm is headed by J. George Johnston, a member of the three-man royal commission on publications which adjourned sittings Thursday in Ottawa.

Mr. Johnston termed the charges "absolute nonsense." "My oldest friend is a Jew," he said. "I wouldn't do a thing to hurt him." Earlier, a member of Mr. Johnston's firm expressed similar sentiments.

Mr. Johnston was unavailable for comment but a member of the firm denied there was any anti-semitic intent in the material.

Under fire was a four-page publication, The Printed Word, produced and distributed by the firm. Items from it are carried as editorial by some Canadian publications, especially weeklies.

Murray Cotterill, public relations director of the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, described the material as a type of "sniggering, supercilious, locker-room brand of anti-semitism."

The council decided to ask the Canadian Labor Congress to bring pressure on the firm's industrial clients to stop distribution of such material, and to ask the religion-labor foundation to bring to the attention of churches the distribution of the editorial "under so-called respectable auspices."

NAME WEATHER POISON—BRITAIN HAD IT

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain had almost every kind of bad weather during the night.

Ice, snow, sleet, hail, fog, rain, high winds, flooding, thunder and lightning were reported from various areas.

Dense fog in the Edinburgh area cut visibility to 10 yards.

Heavy snow in Scotland and northern England stranded cars and trucks but was turning to sleet this morning, clearing most roads.

Western England had violent storms, thunder and rain.

High winds and rain swept eastern England. Some flooding was reported in the south.

No Time Limit Set On U.S. Cuba Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treaty under which the United States holds its big Guantanamo naval base in eastern Cuba took effect in the mid-1930s, but its origins were early in the century soon after Cuba became free from Spain.

Shortly after Cuba—for a time under U.S. control—established an independent regime in 1901, the United States and Cuba negotiated an agreement for the Guantanamo base. The agreement, signed by presidents Theodore Roosevelt of the U.S. and T. Estrada Palma of Cuba in 1903, provided:

"The Republic of Cuba hereby leases to the United States, for the time required for the purposes of coaling and naval stations, certain described areas of land and water."

The United States was given the right to use and occupy adjacent waters.

And "while . . . the United States recognizes the continuance of the ultimate sovereignty of the Republic of Cuba over the above described areas of land and water," Cuba agreed that during "the period of occupation by the United States of said area under the terms of the agreement," the U.S. "shall exercise complete jurisdiction and control over and within said areas."

A 1934 treaty between the two countries in effect wrote into treaty form what had been in the 1903 agreement.

The treaty, on the question of time limit, said the two contracting parties agree to the modification or abrogation of the stipulations.

The lease has been carried out under provision that the U.S. shall pay an annual amount of $2,000 gold dollars.

HEAD of the newly-established public relations department at St. Joseph's Hospital is Maurice Cownden, administrator. Sister Mary Ann Celestia announced today, Mr. Cownden joins the hospital after 11 years in radio broadcasting in various B.C. centres. His activities will include organizing the forthcoming building fund drive and establishing a staff magazine.

PERRAULT 'Create People's Capitalism'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal Leader Ray Perrault of British Columbia said Thursday he will propose a national liberal policy of co-ownership of industry by labor and management at the Liberal rally in Ottawa next week. He said he believes the labor-CCF New Party "is a threat to Liberalism which best can be met with creation of a people's capitalism of which co-ownership is one manifestation." "The CCF called for ownership being placed in the hands of the state. We favor putting it on a basis of individual participation." Mr. Perrault, who will lead a delegation of 100 B.C. Liberals, said he will make his proposal in a speech. His delegation would also call for creation of a department of consumer affairs which would protect the buying public from irresponsible deeds by both business and industry.

Cultural Courses Offered

Victoria College evening division has included two cultural courses in its night classes. Both are part of the "Living Room Learning" series in which adults participate in group study-discussion programs in an informal atmosphere. The spring terms courses are "Shakespeare and His Theatre" and "Looking at Modern Painting." Both courses begin Thursday and will be held each subsequent Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9:30. Fees are $12 per person or $18 for a couple. Registrations can be made now by contacting the evening division at EV 2-9131.

AT COLLEGE

Leading study of the Shakespearean theatre will be Dr. A. Beattie. The sessions will be held at the college. The Modern Painting discussions will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Browne, 2200 Kinross Avenue, where paintings by Cubists, Abstractists, Expressionists, Surrealists and others will be on view for study — and argument.

15,000 Like High School 'By Letter'

High school correspondence courses are still going strong, provincial officials said today. "We have about 15,000 students," said an official of the education department which runs the province-wide courses. He said the department still is accepting pupils, provided they have sufficient credits for a high school course. Some Victoria teenagers had complained that they were unable to enrol in the courses, and were told no more pupils would be accepted. The education official said no one has been turned down who can qualify. B.C.'s program is recognized as one of the best in the world, and its director, Dr. Edith Lucas, has been "loaned" to the West Indies to set up correspondence courses there.

FAIR MAIDS; WIND ARCADIA'S GRIEF

HONOLULU (AP)—Fair wind and crunched gently on to a coral reef. The boarding party included one of Honolulu's welcoming task forces of hula girls, but it also had customs inspectors and ship-ping agents. No one was hurt. The only damage found was an indentation about a foot long and half an inch deep, embedded with bits of coral, about 25 feet below the water line. Fifty tons of fuel had to be pumped from port to star-board tanks, the Arcadia's master, Capt. W. T. C. Letheridge testified at a shipboard coast guard hearing. The big P & O liner—carrying 1,182 passengers—including 65 from Vancouver Island, and a crew of 713, left at midnight for the South Pacific and Australia. Meanwhile, the freighter Portland Trader, which struck a reef off the southern Philippines on Wednesday, was abandoned Thursday after 38 crew members were taken off.

The Blunt Weapon

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT is returning to higher tariffs, a modern version of Sir John A. Macdonald's National Policy. We have that on the word of The Montreal Gazette, the oldest and most reliable organ of the Conservative Party.

Its able Ottawa correspondent, Mr. Arthur Blakely, writes that Mr. Fleming's latest budget "appears to mark the beginning of a deliberate attempt by Sir John A. Macdonald's national heirs and successors to embark on a national policy experiment of their own. The means to be employed have been altered, in the light of the economic changes which have occurred during the intervening decades. But the theme appears to be the same."

This candid interpretation of the budget by a political ally is not calculated to please Mr. Fleming. He was careful in his budget speech to declare over and over again his devotion to abundant international trade and to the tariff contracts of GATT. He denounced any thought of economic isolation for Canada.

But any government's true intentions must be judged by its actions, not its words. Mr. Fleming's budget, however it may be larded over with protestations to the contrary, includes a blunt weapon to reduce imports and, at the same time, to ignore Parliament.

By taking power to decide what goods are of "a kind made in Canada," the Government can move a large volume of imports from the low to the high tariff brackets—without consulting Parliament. The right to levy a tax (for a tariff is nothing else) will be transferred from the legislature to the executive.

Of this constitutional departure we shall doubtless hear much more when Parliament reconvenes. Still more will be heard of the tariff issue itself which seems likely to become the core of national politics from now until the next election. In the meantime one special aspect of the Government's developing policy is worth attention, and alarm.

The main purpose of Mr. Fleming's new tariff legislation is to reduce imports from the United States because, in that market, Canada is running a huge over-all deficit, as it usually has done in modern times.

In the British market, however, Canada has been earning a handsome surplus. Moreover, the Government has been exhorting our businessmen to sell more in Britain, and British businessmen to sell more in Canada. Mr. Diefenbaker's objective from the beginning has been to transfer a large segment of our trade from America to Britain and Europe.

Just as our sales in these overseas markets have increased rapidly, by some 20 per cent this year, the Government proposes to apply its new tariff-making power to British and other overseas goods.

That is inevitable once any tariff is raised, whether it be raised by Parliament or by the discretion of the cabinet. We cannot levy one duty on a British article, for instance, and a higher duty on the same kind of article made in the United States. The blunt weapon hits all imports.

All this is a direct violation of our GATT-tariff contracts however, Mr. Fleming may interpret them.

If he now effectively raises the tariff by the device of reclassifying goods he will soon hear from the other parties to the contract. They will have every right to retaliate and, in fact, that right is written into the contract itself.

But we shall hear with special force from Britain which has been encouraged to sell and buy here, which has followed our advice and now is exposed to great damage by our policies.

Actually, British goods seem specially selected for higher duties. Britain's exports to Canada are not mainly luxury items like wools, china and liquor but machines of many kinds built to the buyer's specifications.

In that category the Canadian Government takes power to declare that an item is of a kind made in Canada, and to raise the tariff on it, even if it is not made here at present but could be made in the Government's judgment.

The blunt weapon of the new National Policy is thus aimed directly at our British friends and customers, at the very moment when they are moving into a grave foreign exchange squeeze of their own.

A Case for Concerted Action

ANY IMPARTIAL OBSERVER must recognize that the United States has maintained great patience in the face of continual exacerbation by Cuba. American industrial property has been appropriated, American banks confiscated without any sign of reimbursement, American public figures and prestige subjected to a running fire of verbal attacks and wild charges.

President Eisenhower had no alternative to breaking off diplomatic relations with the Government of Fidel Castro when the United States diplomatic and consular staffs in Cuba were ordered reduced to 11 members.

The move, however, has sharpened the critical nature of the Caribbean furor, where a Communist foothold is being created off the shores of the Americas.

In this situation Canada occupies a delicate position. Obviously Ottawa cannot follow every diplomatic move of Washington with docile co-operation. We have continued to trade with Cuba despite the United States embargo, and our right to an independent position has largely been understood in the neighboring country.

But the other side of the coin is that the fundamental danger presented to the United States by Communist entry into the Caribbean is also Canada's fundamental danger. Should we be independent to the point of giving undue aid to our ideological opponents?

One possibility of action regarding Cuba lies in a joint effort by the Organization of American States, which includes all the nations of this hemisphere except Canada. If in this crisis the Organization could stand in unity against President Castro's wild policies it might do much to temper his conduct, and remove the struggle from the frame of a mere United States versus Cuba quarrel.

Action by the OAS would show this to be a hemispheric problem and a hemispheric danger. Under such auspices Canada could honorably and wisely give its full co-operation, and perhaps help to avert what is developing into a serious threat to world peace.

A Price for Everything

PERHAPS MR. VICTOR MIDGLEY, carpenters' union official, had a point in his remarks to the Victoria Labor Council on the case of a 16-year-old North Vancouver boy who worked part time for a food store.

The council had heard criticism of the press for giving prominence to the case in which, according to report, the boy was fined $3 for failing to attend a union meeting and had paid over almost 55 per cent of his $38.10 earnings to the union. "The press," said Mr. Midgley, "should congratulate the retail clerk's union for trying to educate these younger workers in the democratic tradition of the trades union movement by getting them to attend meetings." Students, such as the boy in question, who belong to the union enjoy "wages and conditions second to none," the official also stated.

If the facts in the report are correct, and the union received $20.95 while the boy kept $17.15, he has received a very valuable lesson. He should know that education costs money. The tuition fee, on the other hand, seems a little high.

Harvest of Grief

RUSSIAN AGRICULTURAL authorities have looked again at 1960 harvest statistics for new grain-growing areas in Siberia and Kazakhstan and found a Potemkin village. Stated returns do not jibe with actualities.

Though figures are not disclosed, investigations reveal that much of the volume of the harvest was gathered at the wrong time—either while the grain was unripe or while the rain was falling. More-over threshing has proceeded under conditions which have caused excessive loss.

The propaganda objectives have been so emphasized that ordinary commonsense methods have been ignored. So much grain was to be planted by such and such a deadline, so much to be harvested so many months after seeding, that often the crop has failed to provide a reasonable yield and, too frequently, what has been gathered has been wasted because it was rain-soaked.

Natural processes and administrative time-tables have not coincided.

"But, dear... I'm sure Mr. Eisenhower isn't stirring things up on PURPOSE just to make it harder for Mr. Kennedy..."

THERE'LL BE NO ESCAPE

Willing Helpers and Reluctant Helpees

By B. A. TOBIN

A fairly large part of the world could be divided into two classes: people who need help and aren't getting it, and people who are getting it and aren't needing it.

This doesn't look after everyone, of course, but it must take in a tidy portion of humanity. There used to be a story to illustrate the second category. It concerned two little scouts who arrived home in a disheveled condition and explained they were delayed because they stopped to do their good turn by helping an old lady cross the street. "We had an awful time helping her," they reported. "We think maybe she didn't want to cross."

A real-life counterpart of this is now in the news. An item from New Zealand tells of two young wolf cubs who rescued their baby brother when he fell into some water. They went home somewhat dispirited and told their mother: "We tried to give him artificial respiration, mum. But he kept getting up and walking away."

There must be a lot of folk who are doing that today, when the whole trend of the commercial world has become give-give-give. So many television viewers, for instance, don't want what is being pressed upon them. The givers may be cheerful—or simulate it—but the receivers aren't.

They don't want pictures of intestines appearing uninvited in their living rooms; they don't want to see diagrams of post-nasal drip, or knotted muscles being soothed. They don't want to be helped across the street, or artificially revived.

But they're having it handed to them, and for an increasing number of human beings in the world today, life must be more and more a matter of escaping from such givers.

We are given patterns and styles and we have to accept them whether we want them or not. The cut of your coat, the shape of your shoes, the materials of your house and the size of your kitchen are largely given to you by the style makers.

You don't have to accept them all, of course. In many cases you can obtain an alternative. But sometimes avoiding the current style may mean going without—often the stores seem to have on hand only what the givers want to give, not what the receivers want to receive.

But perhaps the material gifts are the least of our worries. In the field of ideas the givers are even more energetic.

And some of their gifts are even more to be declined with thanks.

When it comes to political, social or moral ideas, the aggressive selling techniques of the knotted muscle, the tired intestine and the post-nasal drip are left far behind. A man will work hard to sell you a pill; he will work even harder to sell you his ideas. And you may run even faster to avoid them.

The world has known periods when one idea or another was being distributed on a large scale. Some of them were good, some were not. But probably at no time in history have there been so many varied ideas sold, given away and fired at us all at once as there are today.

The fact that we don't want to cross the street with the helpers, that we don't require artificial respiration from the rescuers, doesn't seem to matter at all. They insist on giving their utmost, trying to get us over to the other side of the road or pumping us full of hot air, despite our objections.

It is not likely that this trend will be reversed. Each year more millions of human beings become literate—thus equipping themselves to become givers or receivers of ideas. Ultimately all mankind will be one or the other. It is then, no doubt, that the horrors of overpopulation will really be felt.

Strontium 90: Most Hazardous Component

AN increase of the level at which the concentration of strontium-90 in human bones should be considered alarming is one of the recommendations of a Medical Research Council report published last week.

The report, "The Hazards to Man of Nuclear and Allied Radiations," is a successor to that of the same title published in 1956 and which has since been the main source of guidance for public policy on radiation.

The main burden of the report is that in the last four years there has been no cause to change substantially the assessments then made of the hazards of radiation, but that the factual basis of these has become much more precise.

On strontium absorbed from fallout, ingested by humans and eventually incorporated in bones, the new expert committee still thinks that this is the most hazardous component of fallout because of the possibility that it might cause leukemia and bone cancer.

However, the committee accepts the recommendation of the International Commission on Radiological Protection that a level of 2,000 strontium units should be regarded as the maximum level of strontium in bones permitted among occupationally exposed persons.

A strontium unit expresses the concentration (rather than the amount) of strontium relative to calcium in a person's bones. The corresponding figure adopted in 1956 was 1,000 strontium units.

The committee also accepts the international recommendation that the permissible average level for the population as a whole should be only one-third of this, or 67 strontium units. (This compares with an estimate of 100 units in the 1956 report.)

On the question of the point at which it would be necessary to take steps to prevent the level of strontium contamination in the population rising above the permitted level, the report says that this "warning level" should now be set at a half (and not a tenth) of that allowed for the population as a whole—that is when the average level of contamination in the general population had reached 34 strontium units.

This compares with the lower identification in 1956 of the level of 10 strontium units as that at which urgent consideration should be given to the biological hazards of fallout.

Measurements of strontium concentrations in the bones of young children have shown that strontium concentrations range upwards to a maximum so far of 9.4 strontium units. Because of the ending of nuclear tests, it is to be expected that the average level in the population as a whole will now have begun to fall.

Members of the committee said last week that the reason for their increased confidence that levels of strontium would not rise in an uncontrolled fashion was based on the discovery that fallout came down from the stratosphere more quickly than was thought four years ago, and that the contamination of diet by this radio-active isotope was dependent on the rate of fallout and not on its accumulation in the soil.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Special Licence Plates

The sale of motor licence plates started on Jan. 3. I had inquired at the motor licence branch about getting a low number.

I was told I would have to apply early to get a low number as the plates were sold in numerical order.

As I did not want to get No. 1 plate I did not apply until 1 p.m. Jan. 3, 1961, the first day of sale when I joined a line-up of other people looking for the low numbers.

At that time they were selling the plates in the 33,000s.

It must have been quite a rush to sell 33,000 plates in the morning.

Helping Business

Regarding Mr. Fleming's "Baby Budget": To my mind it proposes a sound way to develop and expand companies and business in general by lower taxes to make available more and more permanent jobs by being able to sell products and services at lower prices.

(MRS.) A. COLCLOUGH.

For Amalgamation

In only eleven months from now will occur another opportunity to get a large favorable vote for amalgamation between Victoria and urban Saanich.

Having had some experience with the December 12th Group in mobilizing public opinion, I am sure that now is the time to lay our plans to make sure of a properly informed majority in the two municipalities next December.

Perhaps a good name for our new group would be something like Voters For Amalgamation, or VFA for short.

Open to all ratepayers and rentpayers in Victoria and Saanich, this promises to be a lively show of good common sense by scores of people who know that city life is what we make it... If we are sensible enough.

A phone call to me as temporary secretary will make any of your readers, Sir, a founding member in the VFA. They can expect an interesting experience in city living, and each one of them will have a vital individual part to play in the outcome.

If they feel that a firmer control of taxes, and a better use of Victoria's God-given advantages will come from a more effective union of our numbers, now is the time for us to stir ourselves. We have nothing to lose but a lot of vexations! Give me a call.

Railway Realities

By GRANT DEXTER

BEFORE summing up the present position of the railway crisis, the following statements in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Hon. Michael Starr, minister of labor, should be noted.

Mr. Starr, Hansard, p. 345 said: "As the prime minister mentioned, the commission" (the MacPherson royal commission) "will bring down its recommendations dealing with the freight rate structure, at which time the freeze on freight rates will be lifted."

On payment of a subsidy, Mr. Starr said, p. 347: "To require the Canadian taxpayer to subsidize the operating costs of the Canadian Pacific Railway would be setting a most dangerous and costly precedent."

Mr. Diefenbaker was more explicit. At page 240, Mr. Diefenbaker said there would be no subsidy after the MacPherson royal commission reports and that the freeze on freight rates will then be lifted.

Recalling past years, Mr. Diefenbaker, page 357, said: "All through the years, this government, and members of this government when in opposition, have pointed out the injustice which was being imposed on various parts of Canada by the inequity resulting from discriminatory rates."

Eight Increases

His reference, here, of course, is to the eight horizontal increases in freight rates since 1946.

At page 358, Mr. Diefenbaker pledged the government not to give a subsidy to the railways in this connection: "We have taken the stand that we shall not subsidize in this connection because to do so would simply mean that any time there is a dispute across this country with a national company involved which affected the public interest so greatly that a stoppage would paralyze Canada, it would be known in advance that we would give a subsidy in order to prevent the Canadian economy being paralyzed. We do not intend to follow that course."

At page 359, Mr. Diefenbaker appears to modify the position he took when in opposition, and in the two general elections, and the position taken by his government in his absence on Nov. 26, 1958. He now said that the reason horizontal increases were stopped was to allow the royal commission to deal with a static, or unchanging situation.

At three points in the debate, Mr. Diefenbaker told the House of Commons exactly what he thinks is going to happen. The references appear at pages 359 and 370. There are slight variations. In the first Mr. Diefenbaker promised that the royal commission would solve the problem of discrimination in freight rates, the necessary legislation would then be put through, the railways would once more be able to obtain higher freight rates and pay wage increases.

Equalized Manner

In the second, he repeats this, adding that the railways, after the report of the royal commission, would be able to obtain higher freight rates "in an equalized manner applicable to all parts of the country."

Finally, he said, page 370: "By next May 15, without the sacrifice of anything except a postponement, every railway employee will be in a position through his bargaining agent to come to an agreement with the railway company. The railway company will be able to apply to the board of transport commissioners. The freeze will be lifted and the Canadian people, in the normal run of events, will then have to pay extra freight rates in order to meet the increased wage levels, just as they have to pay to meet all other types and varieties of expenditure."

In a word, the government believes that:

1. Freight rates will be equalized.
  2. Some non-discriminatory method of increasing freight rates will be found.
  3. Thereafter no obstacle will exist to collective bargaining.
  4. No subsidy will be paid.
- Among those at Ottawa who are familiar with freight rates, these speeches by the prime minister have caused a kind of stunned incredulity. There happen to be a great many transportation experts here at this time and it is clear that Mr. Diefenbaker made these optimistic predictions without consulting anyone with experience.

Cloud Land

As one veteran freight rate man put it: "This kind of talk comes straight from Cloud Cuckoo Land. If any such solution existed, it would have been found long ago."

Mr. Diefenbaker's optimism is commonly accounted for by the fact that he has shown himself to be subject to "visions." He is never more persuasive or eloquent than when describing not what exists, but what he would like to exist; not what will happen, but what he would like to happen.

The realities of the railway problem are bleak and harsh. As those of long experience here see it, the report of the MacPherson commission next spring will not be the end, but only the beginning of what will inevitably be a long and very painful task of reorganizing our railways.

Faint whispers of this have been heard at the royal commission's hearings—especially with regard to the abandonment of branch lines. These are regarded as no more than slight warnings of what must come.

In these circumstances, the easy optimism of the government is regarded as irresponsible, short-sighted and dangerous.

Beware of Black Widows!

By TONY DICKASON

The sometimes dangerous black widow spider is prevalent here at this time of year and federal and provincial authorities today warned that anyone bitten should get medical attention.

If bitten on the neck the result could be serious, but if bitten on the hand the result would be of less concern.

Result of a black widow bite hinges on the susceptibility of the individual involved — much as some persons who can't tolerate bee stings.

However, there has never been a fatality in Canada from a black widow bite.

During wet weather the black widow seeks dry spots such as on rocks on hillside, or in basements, and because of this reports of the widow become increasingly common.

They will become less noticeable towards the end of winter.

Green Urges Poland, India Speed Observers to Laos

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has asked India and Poland to consider sending their top Laotian observers back to the strife-torn state, an informed source said today.

The foreign ministries of the two countries were advised by cables Thursday night of External Affairs Minister Green's suggestion that the original members of the international truce supervisory commission which went to Laos in 1954 return there.

They were representatives of the three countries picked by the Geneva foreign ministers conference that year to supervise the truce in Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia. Canada's commissioner was Sherwood Lett, now chief justice of British Columbia.

Mr. Green said in a transatlantic radio interview Thursday that the "most satisfactory solution" of what he regards as civil war in Laos would be reconvening the Geneva conference, of foreign ministers which was attended by Communist China.

But he indicated in the interview, and his departmental advisers support him in the view, that arranging such a high-level meeting probably would take more time now than can be afforded in the Laotian crisis.

VISIT INFORMAL

His proposal, therefore, was to have the three commissioners go back to Laos informally, and report to their governments and the foreign ministers of the United Kingdom, Russia, France and Communist China. The United States participated in the 1954 conference negotiations but did not sign the resulting agreement.

Holy Tibetan Family Bears Son in U.S.

SEATTLE (CP) — A boy, believed to be the first child born to a Tibetan holy family outside continental Asia, was delivered in a hospital here Wednesday night.

A hospital spokesman said the seven-pound 15-ounce son of Jamyang Sakyapa, the mother, and Jaldal Sakyapa will carry the title Dzungsey, which means Pillar of the Family. He is predestined to be a celibate monk.

The hospital spokesman said the father is religious head of one of four Tibetan Buddhist groups and the Sakyapa family is looked on as a group of god-kings by about one-fourth of the Tibetan people, members of the international

HURRY AIR TERMINAL MAYOR ASKS OTTAWA

Mayor Percy Scourrah said Thursday he will write to the federal government urging a speed-up in plans for the new Patricia Bay Airport terminal building.

Tenders originally were to be called by early spring but delays in approving sketch plans could hold up the tender call for six months.

"I am anxious to get it going," said the mayor. "There is going to be a tremendous amount of traffic in 1962 with Victoria's centenary and the Century 21 World's Fair in Seattle. Every transportation facility is going to be crowded."

Mikita Packing Dividend Punch

Chicago Edges Boston Bruins; Leafs Triumph

By The Canadian Press
Stan Mikita, one of the few European-born players to make the grade in the National Hockey League, is on a hot scoring streak and it's paying off for Chicago Black Hawks.

The 20-year-old sophomore centre scored a late second-period goal at Boston Thursday night to give the Hawks their sixth consecutive triumph, a 4-3 verdict over the Bruins.

The goal was the eighth in the six-game streak for Mikita, born in Czechoslovakia and an immigrant to Canada in 1948.

Frank Mahovlich scored his 35th goal in 39 games as the surging Toronto Maple Leafs belted the Red Wings 4-1 at Detroit in the league's only other game.

GAP CUT TO TWO
The Leafs have won nine times and tied twice in their last 12 starts and are only two points behind first-place Montreal Canadiens.

Canadiens, with one game in hand, have 51 points while the Leafs have 49. The Hawks are in third place with 42 points and the Wings are fourth with 38.

Until Hawks' hot spell started, Mikita had managed only three tallies in the season's first 33 games and had only eight in 66 games in 1959-60.

Chicago made Mikita's goal, which broke a 3-3 tie, stand up for the win as goalie Glenn Hall turned back 18 shots in the third period. Hall had 34 saves for the game to 18 for Boston's Bruce Gamble.

Ron Murphy, Murray Balfour and Bobby Hull got the Hawks' other goals while Bronco Horvath, with two, and Leo Labine scored for Boston.

RECORD IN DANGER
Mahovlich, Toronto's burly left winger, crept to within 15 goals of Maurice Richard's 50-goal record for one season when he poked in Tim Horton's long shot at the 50-second mark of the third period.

George Armstrong, rookie Dave Keon and Billy Harris scored Toronto's other goals. Norm Ullman scored for the Wings.

Ullman's goal, with less than four minutes remaining in the game, enabled the Wings to avoid a third straight shutout on home ice—a humiliation the club has not experienced in 35 years in the NHL.

The defeat was the Wings' fourth in a row. They haven't won at home in seven starts, their worst home slump in more than three seasons.

SHACK BOOED
Detroit fans booed Toronto's Eddie Shack every time he came on the ice. It was Shack who collided with Gordie Howe in a game between the teams at Toronto Wednesday night.

Hospital officials said, in Toronto Thursday night Howe may not be able to play for two weeks. In Detroit, Wings' general manager Jack Adams said Howe might be in the lineup Sunday against Boston.

Kraftcheck Fired
ROCHESTER (AP)—Steve Kraftcheck has been fired from his job as coach of Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

The 31-year-old defenceman will remain with the club as a player but will be succeeded in his coaching job by general manager Jack Riley.

Cuban Players Get Promise Of 'No Trouble'

HAVANA (UPI)—Minnie Minoso, Camilo Pascual and other Cuban baseball players who make their living in the United States during the summer received official assurance today they will have "no trouble" joining their American clubs.

A high-ranking official in the Cuban foreign ministry said the government would not interfere with ball players leaving for the U.S.

"We will do everything possible to solve your problems," the government official told the players. "This is a special case and we are going to work it out with (acting foreign minister) Carlos Olivares."

60 INVOLVED
The announcement was made as approximately 60 Cuban baseball players, including Minoso and Pascual of the Minnesota Twins, were sweating out getting visas to the U.S. in the aftermath of a break in diplomatic relations between the two countries.

In the past, "baseball visas" were issued during January. Thus, most Cuban baseball players do not have valid visas now since the ones they obtained last year expired after six months. The visa for the ball players was a special one for athletes under contract in foreign countries.

It is believed that the major league clubs will have to submit the names of their Cuban players to the state department in Washington and word will be sent down to the Swiss embassy here to grant U.S. visas.

"NO PROBLEM"
Cuban ball players then would need only exit permits from the Cuban secret police which the foreign ministry of official promised will be "no problem."

Joe Cambria, a scout for the Minnesota Twins and a Cuban resident who discovered Pascual planned a courtesy visit to the Swiss ambassador Monday to explain the situation.

Minoso, president of the Cuban Baseball Association, planned a similar call upon Capt. Felipe Guerra Matos, Cuban sports director, to explain the players' situation.

Twenty Cuban players were on major league rosters last season.

U.S. Club Thumped
COLORADO SPRINGS (AP)—The U.S. Nationals battled on even terms for the first period, then collapsed under the Russian All-Stars' bombardment Thursday night as the Soviets won an exhibition hockey game 10-1 before 4,600 fans.

It was the second triumph over the Nationals in as many tries for the Russians.

Club, for 100 years a firm fortress against female invasion, appeared on the verge of destruction. To any self-respecting English gentleman, this could not be tolerated.

And it wasn't. An extraordinary general meeting was called immediately and the bleak facts disclosed. A vote was demanded.

"The ballot was in secret," explains Clarke, "because some of those who voted against the women are trades people and were a bit scared that they might lose business."

With this protection, needless to say, the defeat was turned into a resounding victory. The resolution was beaten to a pulp. Clarke explained the result this way: "It would be intolerable to have women in the club."

HULL DE-ACTIVATED

Sliding out of play after taking his shot on Boston net is Chicago's Bobby Hull (16). Bruins' goalie Bruce Gamble (1) made save in third period of Thursday's National Hockey League game at Boston while Doug Mohns charged in to make sure Hull remains out of play. Hawks won 4-3.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—Jerry Lucas, the newest and perhaps the greatest of basketball's glamor boys, kicked out the biggest storm in New York since Hurricane Donna.

Straight out of a story book, the big, handsome, brilliant, 21-year-old legitimate straight-A student of Ohio State at once became a bigger rage than hula hoops or trampolines in his first Madison Square Garden appearance.

The king-size Pete Dawkins, the most magnetic attraction in round ball, professional or college, had New Yorkers tearing down the walls seeking entry to the famous building on Eighth Avenue.

Those fortunate enough to gain admission were practically as frenetic about Lucas' well-nigh faultless performance. And in his initial outing against Seton Hall, the big old country boy out of Middletown, Ohio, had a temperance and what was described as a slight touch of influenza.

"That so?" remarked Joe Lapchick, the original Original Celtic coaching Brooklyn St. John's. "If that's the case I'd hate to send my kids against Ohio State when that guy is in good health."

Lucas is a living fictional All-American boy right down to marrying his college sweetheart, the beautiful Treva. This had should have no trouble—certainly not financial—when he completes his education in June of 1962. He will be in position to write his own ticket, either in professional basketball or in the business world, where offers mount.

Majoring in Business Management and Marketing, Lucas is in school on an academic, not an athletic scholarship. With his ability, reputation, personality and charm, he is a lead-pipe cinch to quickly become an executive at a top management level.

He is the one tremendous athlete who could give the money ranks the back of his neck without considerable financial loss at the outset. John W. Galbreath, the industrialist-construction man-sportsman, is one of numerous big shots with an eye on this kid.

Will Lucas turn pro? "As of right now, the answer is no," replied the soft-spoken star who is adored by extremely capable teammates. "I don't fancy playing the 85 games that comprise exhibitions and the championship season and living out of a suitcase for five months, from late October until late March, particularly the latter."

"A lot of people don't realize it, but a professional basketball player in season is rarely in one place for more than two days. I wouldn't like that."

Perhaps the earnest young man would play professionally for a season or two just to show the cock-eyed world that he could do it?

"To me, that would be totally unimportant," was the retort. "I don't have to prove myself."

Lucas, son of Mark Lucas, foreman of a paper box plant in Middletown, which is hard by Dayton, had more than 75 propositions as a high school All-American. He stands six feet seven-and-a-half, weighs 220 pounds. His incredible co-ordination and long, loping stride, which sends him down with the other two swiftest Buckeyes in the fast break, baffle his size.

"You don't coach a kid like Jerry Lucas," said Freddie Taylor, head man of the national collegiate champions. "You just sit and enjoy him."

FEMALE INVASION AVOIDED

LONDON (CP)—It was dangerously close to pub-closing time and the executive of the Woodbridge Bowls Club still hadn't wound up its annual meeting.

So in the best sporting tradition, members whipped through the final resolution with scarcely a glance, approved it with flying colors, then made a lunge for the local bar.

Happily, they made it. And chances are, a good time was had by all.

But next morning team captain Leslie Clarke awoke with a shattering thought. That final resolution, he remembered, had some fine print in it that would—perish the thought—admit women members to the club.

What an unmitigated disaster! The Woodbridge Bowls

CANUCKS HERE SATURDAY

Frank Excels In Utility Role

The words are repetitious when Western Hockey League railbirds get down to discussing the success chapters of the Vancouver Canucks' story.

Generally, they dwell on four defencemen—Ralph Keller, Brent Macnab, Dale Anderson and Larry Cahen—who form what many experts regard as one of the finest blue-line units in minor pro hockey ranks.

For a while, most of the kind words were directed at Danny Belisle, the fleet winger from the Porcupine gold fields who was better than money in the bank for coach Art Chapman and the defending WHL champions.

Chapman expects a lot out of his players, but Roggeveen has surpassed his sternest expectations.

HERE SATURDAY
As Canucks head for Saturday's game in Memorial Arena with Victoria Cougars, Roggeveen boasts a record of 10 goals and 12 assists in 32 games. That, in comparison to some of the more publicised scorers, is not an awesome total.

But for Roggeveen, it shows that he is halfway to completing his best season ever in pro company. His previous high point total came in the 1957-58 season when he scored 16 goals and 22 assists for Edmonton Flyers in 65 games.

Roggeveen is one of those players coaches love to have around. He can play either on a forward line or on defence—his original position. The 175-pounder is also a better-than-average penalty killer.

Roggeveen played four seasons in the WHL and came to Canucks this term after spending last winter with three Rivers of the Eastern League. Game time Saturday is 8:30.

BOWLING

Fault Finder

Back-Up Ball

By SYLVIA WENE
1959 Bowler-of-the-Year

Ask any woman having trouble with her bowling why she doesn't roll a hook and she'll probably answer that she would if only she could get rid of her ineffective back-up ball.

This is the delivery that wanders down the lane in a path from left to right (for a right-handed bowler) as opposed to the hook that breaks sharply from right to left. The back-up results from allowing the wrist and hand to turn clockwise at the point of release so that the thumb is pointing to three. Achieve a good hook ball by keeping the wrist firm and letting the ball go in the traditional handshake position with the thumb at 10 or 11.

No Time to Relax In City Boot Race

This is no time for clubs in the top echelon of the Victoria and District Football League to relax and try to rest on their laurels.

Trailing but upset-hungry teams are threatening to make things uncomfortable for front-runners and this week-end could be a time for surprises.

Canadian Scottish must come up with a victory over Heaneys Saturday at Beacon Hill Park to be certain of retaining sole possession of third place.

The Scots were bounced 2-0 last weekend by the improving Gorge Hotel squad and another loss, combined with a win by Saanich Thistles at Nanaimo Sunday, would drop Scottish into a third-place deadlock with Thistles.

HUSTLING CLUB

However, Sunday's tussle promises to be anything but a picnic for the youthful Saanich club. Thistles face a hustling Hub City side that outplayed Heaneys in the second half last weekend before bowing 4-3.

In other matches Sunday, high-flying Evcoes are expected to hold on to the top rung by beating Brodies Bakery at Beacon Hill. Kickers are favored to bounce back from last weekend's 3-0 loss to Evcoes and down last-place Esquimalt at Bullen Park. The Victoria West-Gorge contest at Central Park has been postponed.

All matches start at 2 p.m.

DC's Continue Climb Up Ladder

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Dietrich-Collins came from behind Thursday to defeat Vancouver Puritans 82-77 for their seventh straight Inter-City Senior Basketball League victory.

The second-place Dietrich-Collins now trail league-leading Lethbridge, unbeaten in 13 games, by eight points.

Rain May Wash Out Minor Soccer Tussles

More rain predicted for the weekend may make some soggy fields unplayable and force postponement of some Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association matches, association officials announced today.

Weekend schedule:

SATURDAY
Division Three — 1 p.m. — Esquimalt Lions vs Legion P.B.T., Vic West Park; MacNutt's vs Oak Bay Optimists, Topas Park; Brentwood vs Sidney, Brentwood.
Division Four — 1 p.m. — Evening Optimists vs Esquimalt Legion, Central Jr. High; Masters Eagles vs Windsor, Majestic Park; Willie Mahood vs Oak Bay Optimists, Carnarvon Park.
Division Five — 1 p.m. — Langford Lions vs Sidney, Lansdowne Park; Esquimalt AC vs Evening Optimists, Bullen Park; Victoria Optimists vs Esquimalt, Windsor Park.

SUNDAY
Division One — 2 p.m. — Heaneys vs Victoria Optimists, Topas Park; Colwood Pharmacy vs Britannia Legion, Carnarvon Park.
Division Three — 2 p.m. — Ball Spring Island vs Hampton Eagles, Ball Spring Island.
Division Four — 2 p.m. — Post Office vs Ball Spring Island, Windsor Park.

Maroons Draw Praise From Friend and Foe

PRAGUE (CP) — As Winnipeg Maroons headed for home Thursday, Czech and Canadian officials credited their team work and determination for a fine showing during a 10-game tour of Czechoslovakia.

They also agreed on the value of the tour in promoting hockey both in Czechoslovakia and Canada. Playing before 116,000 enthusiastic fans in 10 different communities, Maroons ran up a record of seven wins, two ties and one loss and they did it while travelling hundreds of miles by bus and plane—in just 14 days.

W. A. Hewitt, Toronto, registrar-treasurer of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, declared: "These boys are all friends in private life and they carried with them onto the ice the very finest of team spirit. They are a very fine senior hockey team with plenty of ability but it was their spirit which was most outstanding."

FULLFILL EXPECTATIONS
Edward Fardu, Czech National coach, said he was "very satisfied" with the Winnipeg club because "they fulfilled what we were expecting of them."

"They showed our team a simple, but strong and efficient game. The tour was a great help to some of our younger players as potential members of our National team for the forthcoming tournament in Switzerland."

Fardu termed Maroons' ability to forecheck in their opponents' territory and their skill at getting the puck out of their own zone as impressive features of the tour. Their more forceful use of the stick for checking was also mentioned by the Czech coach.

Miroslav Subt, head man of the Czech ice tour, said Maroons "showed our people the kind of Canadian hockey we wanted them to see."

OLYMPIC MANAGER

Hewitt, who managed Canadian Olympic teams in 1920, 1924 and 1928, was impressed with the passing, backchecking and forechecking finesse.

If Maroons had a weakness, he added, it was for fancy plays in front of the net instead of shooting—"but I've seen some pretty good professional teams with the same weakness."

Playing coach Gordon Simpson credited the team with "1,000 per cent effort," noting that the only loss came in the first game when his boys were hampered by the condition of the ice at Pilsen.

Simpson termed the Czech National all-star team and the Prague team as the toughest. The Czech players, Bukac, Vlcek and Walters, were picked by Simpson as the best to face his team.

JUZDA POPULAR

An outstanding feature of the tour was the precision body-checking of Bill (The Beast) Juzda, at 39 the oldest on the team. "This was something the Czechs had never seen," said Simpson.

The 205-pounder's clean, stand-up style of hitting captured the fancy of the fans as had no other feature of the Canadian game.

New Try Planned In Contempt Case

A second attempt to have the corporation of Saanich, its reeve and councillors, attached for contempt of court will be made in B.C. Supreme Court later this month.

"We shall start all over again," lawyer Gerald Lauder said today. "We shall submit that Saanich is guilty of contempt for failing to obey an order made by the Supreme Court."

DISMISSED

Mr. Lauder's first motion for contempt was dismissed in Supreme Court here Thursday afternoon.

The motion was made on behalf of Dr. Warren E. Dennis, 3517 Lorraine, on the ground that the corporation had failed to remove or shut off a sewer line running through his property as directed by Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan.

A general meeting of Mari-gold School PTA will be held on Tuesday next at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Program will include an illustrated talk on physical education in England and Scotland by George Grant. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. Justice Rutan ruled last spring that the corporation must shut off or remove the line from Dr. Dennis' property by Oct. 19, 1960.

Mr. Lauder, for Dr. Dennis, said the order had not been heeded and the sewer line was still in operation.

The application was dismissed by Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean because, he said, the corporation had been given "insufficient notice" on grounds of default.

HEARSAY

He held that the information concerning the corporation's failure to obey the court order was by nature hearsay evidence and not firsthand evidence.

"This order could be disobeyed in any one of a number of ways," said Mr. Justice Maclean. "In a motion of this kind the defendant is entitled to know the nature of the charges alleged against him."

Although the first motion for contempt was dismissed the original court order for removal of the sewer line still stands.

APPOINTMENT of Solon Low, leader of the National Social Credit party, as juvenile and family court judge for Lethbridge and Medicine Hat has been confirmed by H. J. Wilson, Alberta's deputy attorney-general.

Second six-suite unit for the Gorge View Society's senior citizen housing development on Harriet Road, was ordered Wednesday night.

The society awarded the construction contract to Herb Bate Construction Ltd. which bid $33,583. Completion target is April 30.

'PLANTED' STORIES FEARED BY LABOR

Newspaper 'Blackout' Asked on Election Eve

The B.C. government was asked by labor Thursday to impose a newspaper "blackout" on election coverage for 48 hours before polls open.

The B.C. Federation of Labor in a brief to the cabinet said the press should be subject to the same ban on campaign news and advertising as television and radio.

The reaction, according to members of the labor delegation, was favorable.

UP TO OTTAWA

Premier Bennett told them any such restriction is a federal matter, but he said he would back them up if they took the matter to Ottawa.

Last-minute stories appearing on the morning of B.C.'s provincial election Sept. 12 last year stirred some controversy and brought charges they were "planted" to influence the vote.

TRAIN THEM

The brief also asked that poll clerks and other electoral officers receive special training. There was evidence in the last election that some were too inexperienced, it said.

One of the suggestions: Use forestry adviser to replace high school students.

Among the recommendations on power was one that the Arrow Lakes dam plan on Columbia River be scrapped and an alternative scheme built.

The federation also asked for a complete investigation of B.C. Power Corporation, parent firm of the B.C. Electric.

SLOAN SUCCESSOR

The federation called for appointment of a government forestry adviser to replace Chief Justice Gordon Sloan who died in 1959, and a commission to carry out his recommended policies and conduct forestry research.

Other recommendations: Repeal of the Trades Union Act; start a provincial medical insurance scheme; legislation prohibiting strikebreakers; increase in Workmen's Compensation Act benefits to 100 per cent of salary; jury pay equal to salary lost.

1,000 AT CONSECRATION

'I Will So Do, The Lord Being My Helper'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

In a rich blend of color and tradition, Dr. William Robert Coleman today was consecrated Bishop of Kootenay in Christ Church Cathedral.

Eleven bishops, including three from the United States and one from the West Indies, performed the ancient ceremony of laying their hands upon the head of the newly-elected bishop, who succeeds the late Rt. Rev. Philip Beattie of Kelowna.

It was a solemn and moving occasion.

BLAZE OF COLOR

The high altar was a blaze of color as the bishops in their white and scarlet robes formed a semi-circle around the Archbishop's chair.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes headed a congregation of nearly 1,000 that included Anglicans from all districts of Victoria and many from Up-Island churches.

Worshippers from non-Anglican churches also attended.

Archbishop Harold Sexton, as chief consecrator, wore the full ceremonial robes of his office and conducted the main part of the ceremonial from the archbishop's chair immediately in front of the altar.

WARM GLOW

Christmas decorations added color to the scene. Illuminated Christmas trees twinkled on both sides of the altar, the altar rails were decked with flowers and a beautiful Nativity scene cast a soft warm glow over the entrance to the church.

The service opened with a solemn procession around the aisles of the church led by the Crucifer, during which the Litany was sung by choir and clergy.

The clergy then took places in the Nave on both sides of the main aisle. The archbishop performed the office of Holy Communion and the bishop-elect — a grave and earnest figure — was conducted to the chancel steps by his attendant priests.

The solemn ceremony of presenting him to the archbishop followed and the archbishop proceeded to examine him according to ritual.

'I WILL SO DO'

"Will you deny all ungodliness and worldly lusts, and live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world?" "I will so do, the Lord being my helper."

"Will you shew yourself gentle, and be merciful for Christ's sake to poor and needy people, and to all strangers destitute of help?" "I will so shew myself, by God's help."

After the laying on of hands, the Archbishop presented Bishop Coleman with the Bible. Then followed the delivery of the pastoral staff and the investiture with the pectoral cross and ring, the archbishop saying:

"Let this staff be sign to thee of the authority of the Great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls, in Whose Name and by Whose Grace thou wilt tend the flock committed to thy care."

BELLS PEAL

The cathedral bells pealed out over the city as the ceremony closed.

In his sermon Bishop R. S. Dean of the Cariboo said the essential character of a bishop must be that of a pastor.

"Without that the office is valueless," he said. "The title of pastor or shepherd is implied in the title of bishop."

SACRED TRUST

He continued: "William Coleman comes in our midst as a wise man who has obvious gifts of heart and soul, with which the great Giver has endowed him... he accepts a sacred trust and a great challenge."

Dr. Coleman, 45, was formerly principal of Huron College, London, Ont. He will preach at the morning service in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday before taking up his new residence in Kelowna.

He is married and has three children.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1961—PAGE 13

Pipeline Call By Bennett For B.C. Oil

Major Firms Agree To Refine on Coast

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the major oil companies have agreed to refine B.C. crude oil on the coast and he has called for construction of a pipeline to bring it here as soon as possible.

He said he has asked pipeline companies to submit by Jan. 15 proposals for a route and costs.

He said the line does not necessarily have to be "all B.C." It could hook into the existing Trans-Mountain Pipeline from Alberta to Vancouver.

Mr. Bennett said he met the presidents of Imperial Oil, Shell, British American and Standard here Thursday, and they agreed to refine B.C. crude oil on the coast as soon as it is available.

In earlier talk of a pipeline, the B.C. government insisted it should be "all B.C."

HEAR ALL

However, Mr. Bennett says now: "We'll hear all proposals."

He said he hopes the pipeline will be started "as soon as the frost is out of the ground."

The oil will come from wells in the Peace River country.

Trans-Prairie Pipelines is now completing a gathering system from these fields to take oil to Taylor and Dawson Creek. Another firm which had originally planned to do this was forced to pull out when the government refused to agree to its scheme of going into Alberta to join a pipeline there.

Mr. Bennett said the oil could be carried to Vancouver either through an entirely new line or by hooking into the Trans-Mountain Pipeline.

When the line is operating, it will be the first time B.C. crude will be available to motorists in the southern part of the province, the premier pointed out.

WHAT PRICE?

He said the two big factors to be met in building any sort of pipeline to bring oil to the coast are the wellhead price and the price to consumers in Vancouver.

But, he said, building a pipeline will greatly increase the interest in the Peace oilfields as well as boost employment and the economy generally.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Jonquiere, Antigonish return Jan. 13.

Margaree returns p.m. Sunday.

Sussexvale, Beacon Hill, New Glasgow leave 2 p.m. Monday, return April 21.

DIRECTOR OF NAVAL training at headquarters, Capt. Harry A. Porter arrived here from Ottawa today to discuss training methods with senior officers of the Pacific Command. While here he will visit the naval cadet establishment at HMCS Venture, the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads and the fleet school at HMCS Naden.

Woman Hit By Falling Plaster Chunk

A Victoria woman today was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital after being struck by a piece of plaster which fell from the third floor of the Balmoral block at the corner of Douglas and Fort.

The block is being demolished by Merchants Cartage of Vancouver to make room for a new bank.

Miss Ada Daly, 60, of 2494 Plumer, was struck on the head and knocked to the ground, police reported.

She was conscious when taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. The accident occurred at 9 a.m.

City police ordered the contracting firm to stop work until adequate safety measures were completed.

Gorge Project Asked in Time For Centenary

Development of the Gorge into a parklike waterway connected by a canal to Esquimalt Harbor was recommended today as a centennial project by city public works committee.

Committee asked council to make the suggestion to the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee.

Besides marking the city's 100th anniversary next year, it would also provide considerable employment to relieve the jobless picture here.

Referring to unemployment, works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow described the federal winter works program as "a farce" because it did not make a dent in the unemployment situation. Ald. M. J. Griffin agreed but added that Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips "doesn't seem to be aware of it."

City engineer J. C. Garnett said the winter works program did help create some jobs during the winter but it did not improve the year-round employment picture because civic governments only transferred some summer projects to the winter months.

MONTE ROBERTS

Ray Wormald, who drives a navy desk, has been going around with an incredulous expression on his handsome face ever since Boxing Day.

To understand this, you must know that Ray is an ardent fisherman.

He would rather fish than eat, and if he had to subsist entirely on the fish he caught, he probably wouldn't eat very much.

But no matter. Like all true fishermen, he fishes for the fishing, not the catching.

Which brings us to Boxing Day when, in the line of duty, Ray accompanied an RCN party to Race Rocks lighthouse, there to install a plaque marking the 100th anniversary of the day the beacon was first lit.

Looking about him with awe and admiration, Ray thought to himself, what an ideal place for a fisherman to live. A fisherman's Valhalla, Ray thought; waters teeming with salmon right at the doorstep.

Ray didn't keep his thoughts to himself, he confided them to David Odlum who, for the past eight years, has been the keeper of Race Rocks lighthouse.

"I envy you, Mr. Odlum," said Ray. "I take it for granted, of course, that your hobby is fishing?"

"Fishing, smiling," said Mr. Odlum. "I wouldn't give you a lead sinker for all the fish in the sea. Let the fish stay in the sea, that's what I always say. I do not like fishing. Fishing is dull, unamusing, boring. I NEVER go fishing."

Hastily, Ray ventured to change the subject. "But you must have some hobby," he said, "to help while away the lonely hours. Woodworking, maybe? Burnt leatherwork? Crossword puzzles? Exotic forms of solitaire? Writing a book, perhaps?"

"Oh, I have a hobby," said Mr. Odlum, gazing south and east across Juan de Fuca Strait.

"My hobby," said Mr. Odlum, his eyes fixed hungrily on the Olympics, so close, but oh, so far away, "my hobby is mountain climbing."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Condition of six-year-old Charlene Stark, 4036 Granville, who suffered injuries Thursday when she walked into the path of a car, is satisfactory, officials of St. Joseph's Hospital reported today.

The young Saanich girl was thrown to the side of the road after walking into the path of a car driven by David F. Hilton, 1540 Charlton. The accident occurred on Hastings Street shortly after 3 p.m.

A young Victoria service station employee was given a suspended sentence of six months today in city police court for theft of automobile parts.

Magistrate William Ostler suspended the sentence on assurance from Robert S. Flegg, 3301 Wordsworth, that he sell his car.

Flegg had been accused of stealing a tire, a tube and a battery from his employer and Magistrate Ostler ascribed the underlying motive for the theft to his "infatuation with automobiles."

The $5,000-ton super-tanker, Harold H. Heim, arrived at Esquimalt Harbor today for annual survey, painting and any necessary repairs. The big ship was to be docked by Yarrows Ltd. in government graving dock today.

Work is expected to take five days and employ about 200 men.

Annual business meeting of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society will be held in the public library Thursday, Jan. 12, at 8 p.m.

Election of officers will be held.

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday at 1.30 p.m. in the Provincial Museum where they will exhibit nature objects collected by themselves on weekly field trips.

Dale Carnegie Alumni Association will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Board Room, Black Ball Ferry Building, on Monday at 7.45 p.m.

President Art Mebs will be in the chair.

City lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid was congratulated today for "ingenuity" in devising a temporary automatic control system for street lights which will save labor costs.

Public works committee recommended that council implement the suggestion immediately and lay off two operators and a relief operator employed at the sub-station at an annual saving of $12,200.

Mr. Reid stressed that the men would be re-employed on the city's current underground wiring program which will give them until mid-summer to find other work.

A radio valued at $120 was removed by thieves from the dashboard of a car owned by Harold Olafson, 4177 Shelbourne, city police reported today. The car was parked behind the curling rink.

The Capital City Branch, Color Photographic Association of Canada, will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at the home of A. T. Gray, 1507 Athlone Drive.

Color slides will be shown.

St. George's (Own) Scout Troop and Cub Pack will hold a bottle drive Saturday in the Ten Mile Point-Cadboro Bay area north of Cedar Hill Cross Road and east of Finnerly Road. Residents are asked to leave bottles on their doorsteps if they are going to be out. Proceeds from the drive will be used for troop and pack projects.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today turned down Victoria Mayor Percy Scurren's request for grants in lieu of taxes of provincial buildings.

"We share all the costs of the municipalities and then give per capita grants," he said.

"We treat our capital city the best in Canada," Mr. Bennett said the Capital Improvement District Commission has spent a great deal beautifying the area, and reminded municipal officials that in many places it is the presence of provincial government offices that stimulates business.

Dime-an-Hour Parking Asked

Committee Moves On Mayor's Plan

City public works committee today recommended that council set parking meter rates at 10 cents an hour throughout the commercial core of the downtown area.

Also recommended were steps to seek provincial legislation to enable the city to hold "area votes" on proposed off-street parking facilities and to lease civic property for up to 20 years instead of five as at present.

All the recommendations follow proposals, made by Mayor Percy Scurren in his inaugural address this week, aimed at encouraging development of off-street parking facilities by private enterprise.

"The people turned down the View Street garage because they didn't want the city to go into the parking business," said works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

"Well this will keep us out of the business and make it possible for private enterprise to do the job."

"UNPOPULAR"

Doubling meter rates "may be unpopular but we've got to encourage private enterprise to build off-street facilities and nobody can do that now and still compete with the present five-cent per hour rate people get at the meters."

The downtown meters would allow a full hour of parking at a time but it would cost two nickels instead of one. However, the present five-cent meters on Broad Street would be retained although they permit only half an hour parking at a time.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said even if council approves the rate increase, the change will not be made immediately because new meters would have to be installed.

Under the "area vote" system, ratepayers in designated areas would be the only ones voting on a proposed civic off-street parking facility but they also would be the only ones that would have to make good any financial losses.

LEASE LAND

The longer lease period sought would enable the city to assemble land for a parking project and then lease it to a private developer.

Proposed establishment of a parking commission to supervise future development of off-street facilities will be discussed at the next meeting.

New Manager At Arena In Two Weeks

Memorial Arena's new manager will take over in two weeks, acting commission chairman W. F. Pinfold announced Thursday night.

The new arena head is Jack Morgan, who has been manager of the Nelson civic arena for the past 12 years "and has done a good job there," Mr. Pinfold said.

The Nelson arena was a multi-purpose operation including a theatre, curling rink and recreation centre.

Mr. Morgan's salary was not disclosed.

Out-going manager Joe Dukowski, who was paid $10,400 a year, will remain at the arena during the changeover.

Generous Old-Timer Passes In Saanich

A Saanich pioneer who a year ago donated 168 acres of land in the Saanich lake district to the provincial government as a park, Thomas Samuel Francis, 83, died today in Royal Oak Private Hospital.

His gift to the people of B.C. has been valued at close to $65,000.

Funeral service will be held in McCall's chapel Monday at 1.15 p.m.

BURNED OUT

After giving the land to the province, Mr. Francis who lived in a shack on the property, was burned out.

On his behalf the Thetis Park Sanctuary Association and the Victoria Natural History Society, with the aid of public subscription and volunteer labor, built a three-room home for the fire victim on Munn Road.

Mr. Francis, born in Saanich, raised cattle all his life. His father, who came around Cape Horn from England, married here and young Francis attended the pioneer Craigflower School.

There are no survivors.

NEW PINK LICENCE PLATES PROTESTED, PRAISED BY LONG-SUFFERING MOTORISTS

You'll Get Used to Them—Time Heals Everything!

By DON INGRAM

First reaction of most Victorians to the 1961 pink licence plates beginning to appear on city streets is that they are ghastly, frightful, unprintably awful, and an appalling offence to the sensibilities.

But pin the protesters down a bit—with judicious application of the boot, thumb-screw, rack and garrotte—and one finds that about half of them really don't mind the coral, shrimp, shocking pink plates.

Traffic Inspector Brooke Douglass of the city police said "the ladies will think the plates are out of this world."

"Seriously, though, I can't see too much wrong with them," he said. "The pink is a little overpowering, but we'll get used to them. They'll be okay."

Decorator Dave Peirce said the pink background and purply-maroon figures make "a really charming combination for Milady's powder room. I don't think they are as clear as they could be."

Car salesman Jack Harris gave them full marks.

"They are easy to see and the figures are clear," he said. "No matter what color combination was used someone would object to it."

His colleague, Ken Alger, said bluntly: "They just aren't the proper colors for a licence."

Ladies' reaction was mixed.

"Aren't they horrible!" said Times fashion editor Nona Damaske.

"They'll match my pink car and I think they're dandy," said Mrs. Jack Edwards.

Said a high-ranking RCMP official: "They will take some getting used to. Although the colors are a little odd, I think they are fine. The figures stand out well and that's what concerns us most of all."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Banish Onion Peeling—
Try Bottled Juice Instead

By PENNY SAVER

One English manufacturer must have had women who hate to peel onions in mind—and there are many of them—when they decided to export bottled onion juice. Now available in a store I was in this morning, the product is bound to win a stamp of approval from many Victoria housewives.

Used in gravy, it requires only one teaspoon for each cup. Same amount will season one pint of soup, each pound of meat in a stew and a casserole to serve four people. Brushed on the outside of a roast, it will give that subtle difference that lifts meals out of the mediocre bracket.

Bottle containing 2½ ounces sells at 37 cents.

Same manufacturer is also exporting celery juice for flavoring. Bottle containing same number of ounces is priced at 35 cents. Celery juice can be used in many ways, being ideal in cold salads, dressings, creamed chipped beef, meat loaves, stews, casseroles and soups. Used with stewed chicken, it will help create a dish that will perk up any appetite on these dull, rainy days.

If you own a freezer but dread the chore of cutting a roast from a solidly frozen carcass, you should investigate special knives that are imported from England.

Blades are of finest Sheffield steel and solid, heavy handle is of packwood so that there's no risk of the wood spoiling when placed in hot or boiling water. Knives are extremely well made and a bargain at $4.95.

DEAR ABBY

Give Her the Acid Test!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife is 40 and I am 41. We have two children. My wife has had me believing for 22 years that she couldn't drive a car. I had to drive her everywhere she wanted to go.

Now get this. I just found out from a very reliable source that she has been driving 20 miles once a week to meet a certain man while she was supposed to be doing the marketing by bus. I am shocked and sick because a sweeter wife never lived. She was a perfect mother and I never came home to find her gone. What do you think I should do?

IN A DAZE
DEAR IN: Ask her if the story is true. (Not all "reliable sources" are reliable.) If she's been living a double life, put aside your own hurt and bitterness and do what is best for your family. Forgive her. And having forgiven her—don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man who is five feet, five inches tall. I am marrying a girl who is exactly my height in her stocking feet. When we would go anywhere she'd wear flats because it bothered her to be a little taller than I. I never bothered me, and for my part, she could have worn high heels.

We are being married soon.

LYNN SEYMOUR
AMONG 10 BEST

Twenty-one-year-old Lynn Seymour, newest and fastest rising star of the Royal Ballet, is listed among 1960 merit award winners of Mademoiselle Magazine.

A Canadian, Lynn Seymour successfully auditioned for the Sadler's Wells Company (later the Royal Ballet) when it came through her native Vancouver on tour in 1953. She studied at company's school in London for two years, then joined the touring company. During these travels her Odette-Odile in Swan Lake made a deep impression on all who saw it. She returned to London, no longer a cygnet but a swan.

Her American debut last fall prompted one critic to say that her "inborn grace and fluency" reminded him of Danilova and Alonso.

Other young women honored by Mademoiselle magazine for signal achievement during the past year were: Patricia Bath, scientist; Jane Powell Rosenthal, archaeologist; Elizabeth Seal, actress; Wilma Rudolph, athlete; Susan Greenberg, photographer; Lee Bonfey, sculptress; Julie Isles, fashion designer; Elaine May, critic; and Helen Jean Rogers, television producer. All 10 winners are under 30 years of age.

Tuna Swirls for Meal Treat

This is the time of year when the housewife planning a meal is apt to be in despair.

Here is one tempting solution.

A fruit medley and a beverage are all that is needed to complete this delectable, easy-to-prepare meal.

TUNA SWIRLS

Yield—Four to six servings—2 swirls per person.

Two cans (approx. 7 oz. each) tuna fish, ½ cup yellow cornmeal, 2 tablespoons drained capers, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup finely-chopped celery, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated onion, ¼ cup chilled shortening, 1 can (approx. 10 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup, ¾ cup (about) milk, ½ cup light cream, 1½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour or 1½ cups once-sifted pastry flour, few drops Worcestershire sauce.

For the filling, drain and flake the tuna fish. Add and mix in the capers, celery and grated onion, moisten with about ¼ cup of the mushroom soup.

Grease a cookie sheet. Pre-heat oven to 425 deg. F. (hot). Sift together into a bowl, the all-purpose or pastry flour, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, cornmeal, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening finely. Using a fork, mix in sufficient milk to make a soft but not sticky dough. Turn out onto a lightly-floured board or canvas and knead 10 seconds. Roll out into a 12-inch square. Spread with the tuna mixture. Roll up jelly-roll fashion; seal the ends, and steam. Cut roll into 8 to 12 slices. Place the slices, a cut side down, on prepared cookie sheet. Bake in preheated oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Turn remaining mushroom soup into a small saucepan. Blend in cream. Heat. Just before serving, stir in parsley and Worcestershire sauce. Serve the swirls, piping hot, with the mushroom-parsley sauce.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Milk and Cream Will Make You Gain Weight

Q: "Can you tell me how to gain 15 pounds? I have tried every way I know, tried seriously and faithfully, but didn't gain a pound. I am 5 feet-5½ inches tall and weigh 110 pounds."

A: I am sure that you know you must have plenty of sleep but here are a few suggestions you may not have tried. Drink at least three or four glasses of milk daily and add a little cream to each glass.

Do not try to stuff yourself on high-calorie foods and don't overlook fresh fruits and vegetables. These build up your intake of essential vitamins. Supplements of vitamin B complex seem to be helpful. Mild exercise is an aid in gaining weight. A walk daily is relaxing and increases the appetite. Swimming twice a week at your local YWCA is a good idea.

Lowman

If you smoke, cut down on it or, better, give it up for a gain of weight.

Q: "I have a very flabby abdomen. Is this because I am overweight? What can I do to get rid of this condition? I hate it. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 121 pounds. My measurements are 'bust 35 inches, waist 25 and hips 36.'"

A: You certainly do not need to lose weight. You are about five pounds underweight even if you have a small build. If you have a medium frame, you are around 16 pounds underweight. Exercise is the answer to your problem. Take abdominal exercises. If you or any of my readers would like to have my exercises for the abdomen send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q: "Will sleeping on my bust make it sag?"

A: It certainly seems to me that it would in time flatten the bust.

Q: "Is there a doctor who removes fat from the abdomen?"

A: Plastic surgeons sometimes perform this operation when there is real need for it. However, why not lose the fat through diet and exercise? This can be done without surgery.

Q: "There seems to be a difference in opinion about whether or not alcoholic drinks cause one to gain weight. What is the truth about this?"

A: Alcoholic drinks are high in calorie count, and therefore add weight. For instance, one ounce of gin has about 75 calories and one ounce of bourbon about 85 calories.

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, will attend a luncheon given by Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, wife of Victoria's mayor, in the private dining room at the Union Club next Thursday.

On Saturday afternoon, Jan. 14, Mrs. Pearkes will be guest of honor at a reception in Oak Bay Beach Hotel, arranged by Municipal Chapter, IODE.

Saturday evening Mrs. Pearkes will present annual awards to students of Victoria Chapter, Royal Conservatory of Music Alumni Association in Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Skiing at Forbidden Plateau

Several friends from Victoria and other points on the Island spent the recent holidays skiing at Forbidden Plateau Lodge. In a group from the Victoria Outdoors Club were Dr. Joyce Clearhue and the Misses Mary Andres, Rosemary Butler, Vi Pearson, Alice Hogue, Dorothy Cosgrove, Leah Kalsale, Elspeth Kerr, Sybil Lees, Muriel McKeown, Maxine Ellis, Joyce Edwards and Miss Margery Sharpe, Princeton. In the same party were Mr. Bill Burroughs, Mr. Syd Watts, Mr. Gordon Limbrick with sons, Gerald and Stuart, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Dyke.

Visitors from Port Alberni included Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Helem and son, David; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hickey and Mr. Vernon Buse. Nanaimo guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lionel with Olive, Rory, Trudy and Sally and Mr. Robert Burns with a group of eight boys.

Mr. Kenneth Desfleur and Miss Margaret Nodd came from Parksville for the holiday skiing and in a party from the RCAF base at Comox were Mr. William McArthur, Mr. Michael Airey and Mr. C. F. P. Meaney.

Announcement

Engagement is announced of Shirley Ann Grant, daughter of Mrs. W. W. Grant, 548 Cornwall Street, and the late Mr. Grant. Groom-elect is Mr. Walter Thomas Rebbitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Rebbitt, 740 Monterey Avenue. Wedding will take place Feb. 4 at 2:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay.

In Chemainus

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beaubien of Chemainus, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeannette Lucinda, to Mr. Derek Albert McNamara, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McNamara of McCreary.

FASHION KEY TO SPRING

New Dior Designer Will Stress Elegance

PARIS (NEA) — When the House of Dior shows its spring collection here at the end of January, the fashion world will have the first chance to judge the ability of the new Dior designer, Marc Bohan.

As the successor to Yves St. Laurent, who was Dior's successor, the 34-year-old Bohan holds France's top fashion job. It's really the first time he's had a chance to show what he can do though he's no newcomer to fashion.

What is this change likely to mean in terms of fashion to the average Canadian woman?

Well, no one knows exactly what Bohan is planning. But it's safe to say that the "rich beatnik" look for which Yves St. Laurent was known will vanish. Dior executives felt that this was a look which lacked the elegance for which the House of Dior has become known.

Bohan has a sense of elegance and style which spell out good taste in any language. He's not likely to trim "amusing" leather jackets with mink, hike skirts above the knees or create hobble balloon skirts to be worn with felt hats that resemble tea kettles.

Bohan has never seen eye-to-eye with the off-beat designs of St. Laurent. In fact, he

Clubwomen's News

Officers — Executive of Belmont United Church's Women's Association was elected at annual meeting held recently. Honorary president is Mrs. G. Butler; president, Mrs. M. Warburton; first vice-president, Mrs. F. Waldern; second vice-president, Mrs. J. Marshall; secretary, Mrs. G. Taylor; recording secretary, Mrs. William Pateman; treasurer, Mrs. R. Young; pianist, Miss E. Ransom, and patronage committee, Miss A. Loree and Mrs. E. Scharf.

Donations — A sum of $200 was voted for a multiple sclerosis case; goods were given for a welfare family hamper and used toys for the underprivileged children of Victoria at recent meeting of Victoria Jaycee-ettes. Mrs. Georgina Wilson spoke to the group on the International convention of Junior Chambers of Commerce held in Paris, France. A social evening followed.

Florence Nightingale Chapter, IODE, Monday at 2 p.m. at headquarters. Nominations of officers.

Jacqueline Kennedy, whose clothes spending became an issue during the presidential campaign last year, now voted fashion's best.

Wins First Place In Fashion World In Landslide Approval

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has been elected the first lady of world fashion and, unlike her husband, she won in a landslide.

The New York Couture Group Incorporated, which annually asks some 2,500 style experts and society leaders to pick the world's 12 best-dressed women, said the beautiful wife of the president-elect of the United States went to the top of the list by "an overwhelming majority."

It was young Mrs. Kennedy's first appearance on the list.

Another wife of a chief of state also appeared on the list for the first time.

She is pretty young Queen Sirikit of Thailand, who amazed New York with the muted perfection of her costumes.

Reluctant Fashion Leader

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Being a fashion leader," said Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, "is at the very bottom of the list of things I desire."

But today, the 31-year-old wife of the president-elect was the nation's number one clothes horse, no matter how reluctant she may be to fill the style setter's role.

The wife of the president-elect is a tall, slender brunette with a model's figure and with a clothes-horse knack that would have her looking chic in a burlap bag. Her clothes tastes tend to simple and uncluttered silhouettes, to sleeveless dresses, to neatly buttoned coats and to bright colors.

She wears her hair in a bouffant style already being copied by models and other women. She usually is hairless, but recent photos showing her wearing a small pillbox on the back of her head have pillbox shapes being revived throughout spring millinery collections.

During the presidential campaign, Mrs. Kennedy took exception to reports that she spent as much as $30,000 a year on her wardrobe.

times when she visited here last year.

There now are so many "best-dressed" women on the world scene that the couture group has increasing difficulty in selecting the "top."

HALL OF FAME

In recent selections those who have appeared on the list three years or more have been retired to a Fashion Hall of Fame to make room for newcomers.

Those so elevated this year are the Duchess of Kent, Mrs. Bruno Paglia, also known as Merle Oberon; Princess Grace of Monaco, and Mme. Arturo Lopez-Willshaw of Paris.

The official 1960 list of best-dressed women of the world includes, after Mrs. Kennedy, the following: Vicomtesse Jacqueline de Ribes of Paris.

DR. LOTTA NAMES AN ASSISTANT

TORONTO (CP) — Deborah Mason, 23, of Toronto has been named personal assistant to Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive director of the United Nations Service Committee of Canada.

Miss Mason, who has worked for the last year with the United Nations, will assume her new post at Ottawa within three weeks.

A resident of England and Switzerland since her graduation from the University of Western Ontario in 1958, Miss Mason will be in charge of the committee's overseas projects.

Bride Wears Mother's Necklace

A crystal necklace, which her mother had worn at her wedding, was included in the ensemble of Miss Margaret Mary Wheeler when she was married to Gerald William Peters last week in Lady of Assumption Church, at Brentwood.

Her floor-length gown of white nylon had full bouffant skirt with lace inserts and a lace bodice with lily point sleeves. Three-quarter-length veil filmed gracefully from a sparkling rhinestone tiara. Her bouquet was of red roses.

Red carnations marked the guest pews and arrangements of white and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the church.

Father Philip Hanley officiated at the double-ring ceremony and was assisted by Father William Mudge as deacon and Rev. W. Hill as sub-deacon.

The church choir sang at the nuptial mass.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Wheeler, of Saanichton, and Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, of Coolidge, Alta. Mr. Wheeler gave his daughter in marriage.

NYLON SILK GOWNS

The matron of honor was Mrs. Leola Robinson, who wore a jacketed gown of turquoise nylon silk.

There were three bridesmaids. The sister of the groom, Miss Dorothy Peters, was in a turquoise nylon dress; Miss Maureen Broadbent wore a blue nylon silk dress, and a pink nylon dress was the choice of Miss Carolyn Hurst, cousin of the bride. All carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums, with trailing pink streamers.

Patrick Wheeler, cousin of the bride, was best man, while her brother, Peter Wheeler, Ronald Robinson and "Bud" Wilfred Butler were ushers.

A reception followed in the Institute Hall at Keating. A three-tier cake was on the head table, which was covered with a lace cloth. White candles and arrangements of pink sweetheart roses in silver vases completed the table arrangements. The hall was decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums. Bridal party stood beneath ivy-covered arch Mrs. W. Blakemore, Mill Bay, to receive guests.

For travelling on honeymoon up-island Mrs. Peters was Willard Michell. Several guests came from out of town for the wedding. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Peters and Miss Dorothy Peters, Saskatoon; Miss Brood, bent, Vancouver, and Mr. and Road.

ISLAND DIGEST

IRKS ALTRINCHAM
Queen Called 'Cat's Paw' For Macmillan

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Altrincham, Britain's outspoken watchdog of royalty, lashed out again Thursday with a charge that the Queen was being used as "a cat's paw" by Prime Minister Macmillan "to promote the interest of his party and enhance his own authority."

The 36-year-old peer, in an article in The Guardian of Manchester headed Santa Mac, based his charge on the Queen's New Year honors list.

PARTY POLITICAL
The list, issued in the Queen's name, contains a preponderance of party-political awards, Altrincham said.

"I explained before," he said, "that recipients owe the degree, if not the fact of their recognition, to what they had done and not done out of loyalty to the Conservative party and its leader."

"In other words, the Queen, in whose name honors are bestowed, is being used as a cat's paw by her prime minister to promote the interest of his party and enhance his own authority."

"The implications of this unpleasant truth," Altrincham said, "should be carefully pondered at Buckingham Palace."

The Conservative peer broke down the distribution of knighthoods and orders of the British Empire.

He claimed labor unions "are left out in the cold," but added that perhaps this is due to their reluctance to accept honors from a Conservative government.

Altrincham said he felt bound "to condemn the use that Macmillan makes of his patronage and the very existence of such patronage in the hands of a single man."

Wandering Bottles Worth $1

The Fisheries Research Board of Canada has launched 36,000 bottles on the Pacific in the last four years and now will pay $1 each to find out where they have wandered.

The pint-sized bottles containing postcards have been set adrift at six-week intervals in the northeast Pacific to study circulation patterns, the board's Pacific oceanographic group reported at the annual meeting in Ottawa Thursday. The experiment is being conducted from Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo, where the bottles are prepared. Each contains a postcard in English, Japanese and Russian asking the finder to mail it to the department saying where and when it was discovered.

Returns so far have averaged around five per cent. It was with the intention of increasing this figure that the reward for finding the bottles was raised to $1 from 25 cents.

BIG SLUMP RECORDED IN V.I. COAL OUTPUT

A sad story for Vancouver Island is told in the year's last coal mining bulletin from the mines department.

One tenth, or 6,613 short tons, of B.C.'s coal was mined here to the end of November. More than one fifth, or 13,436 short tons was mined in 1959.

Main reason for the slump—Tsable River mine is producing only half, and Chambers Mine is closed.

Jury Asks Speed Limit After Student's Death

Recommendation of a 40-mile speed limit at an intersection where UBC student Barry Bourque died in a traffic accident Boxing Day was made Thursday night at Lady Smith by a coroner's jury.

The jury also recommended erection of warning signs at the site, three miles north of Ladysmith, where Code Road and Brenton Page Road meet. The 18-year-old Ladysmith student was killed when a car in which he was a passenger rolled over. According to evidence at the inquest, he suffered head and neck injuries.

Driver of the car was Euan Colin Cameron.

Shipyards Ask For Strike Vote

(From Times News Services)

VANCOUVER — The Marine Workers' Union (CLC) has applied for a government-supervised strike vote in a contract dispute involving 300 workers at North Vancouver's Burrard Drydock.

However, union president Sam Jenkins said Thursday he was hoping "someone would get this thing straightened out."

The company, through the B.C. Shipbuilders' Federation, rejected the union's proposal of a 15-cent hourly increase over two years. It offered 20 cents over three years. The present basic was not known.

The strike vote is expected to take place within a week or 10 days.

DAMAGES AWARDED

VANCOUVER — A highway construction firm which figured recently in a contempt of court action has been assessed damages totalling $8,795 for claims of wrongful dismissal and salary loss by a former employee.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris awarded the damages in B.C. Supreme Court to Glen Gerry. They were against Union Contractors Limited, a company which was involved in a trial resulting in a contempt conviction against C. W. Thornton, a Montana contractor and top official of the firm, and a fine of $1,000 on Highways Minister Gagliardi.

POST AT RUTGERS

VANCOUVER — Neal Hallow, librarian of the University of British Columbia, has been appointed dean of the graduate school of library services at Rutgers University, it was learned here today.

MORE SLEIGH-RUNS

VANCOUVER — A coroner's jury Thursday recommended further development of toboggan and sleigh-runs in neighboring Mount Seymour Park.

The jury found Rein Erisalu, 19, died accidentally of heart and lung hemorrhages after being thrown from a toboggan on the mountain Monday.

ACCESS ROADS SOUGHT

NELSON — A special committee will promote development of access roads to Crown lands and waterways, Nelson Chamber of Commerce decided Thursday.

PLANE INSURANCE VALID

VANCOUVER — A Vancouver aviation firm Thursday won the right to collect insurance on a converted war-time P-38 air survey plane which crashed near Prince George four years ago, killing the pilot and a 15-year-old passenger.

Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan made the award in the B.C. Supreme Court when he ruled that Survey Aircraft Limited is entitled to recover the plane's loss as insured under a policy held by Lloyd's policy of aviation insurance and Orion Insurance Company despite the fact the pilot was engaged in a demonstration of aerobatics.

Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan made the award in the B.C. Supreme Court when he ruled that Survey Aircraft Limited is entitled to recover the plane's loss as insured under a policy held by Lloyd's policy of aviation insurance and Orion Insurance Company despite the fact the pilot was engaged in a demonstration of aerobatics.

PROJECTS TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR GROWING NEEDS FOR SERVICE REQUIRE THIS EXPENDITURE ON WAGES & MATERIALS

A big job of capital improvements must be carried through this year — on schedule.

Generating facilities, transmission systems and substation capacities must all be expanded to guarantee you ample supplies of electricity and natural gas.

Distribution lines and gas mains must be extended to bring services to new customers. Transit services must be maintained.

Planning is complete. The job is under way. Fifty three million dollars have been earmarked to cover the cost of wages and materials.

In 1961 as in previous years, B.C. firms will carry out the lion's share of this work.

This means that millions of dollars will flow into the B.C. economy.

Out of this program of expansion and improvement will come the steady, dependable supply of our utility services that mean better living for everyone...

and the new industry on which this area will thrive.

Special Times Feature

THE KENNEDY STORY

This is the second in a series by correspondent and author Joe McCarthy from his book, "The Remarkable Kennedys." It gives a complete picture of President-elect John Fitzgerald Kennedy up to the moment of election, Nov. 8, 1960. The series is continuing in The Times daily.

By JOE MCCARTHY

When the smoke of the campaign battle cleared after the election of John F. Kennedy as president of the United States, political experts tried to explain why so many of the nation's voters had changed their minds about the boyish-looking 43-year-old candidate who had seemed only a few months back too young and too inexperienced for the White House.

The commentators agreed that the Kennedy-Nixon television debates turned the tide toward the Democratic ticket.

Maturity Revealed
Not that the debates did Richard Nixon serious harm, but they showed Kennedy's quickness of mind and confident decisiveness and made him seem as mature and as well-informed as the Californian on foreign and domestic issues.

This demolished what had been up until September the strongest argument against Kennedy—his youth and "inexperience." One of the Republicans who had been doubtful about the wisdom of entering the debates was Nixon himself.

His campaign advisors were sure that he would show up Kennedy, but Nixon remembered clearly a debate between himself and Kennedy back in 1947, when they were freshmen Congressmen.

'Not That Easy'
The two young members of the House of Representatives traveled to Pennsylvania to argue the Taft-Hartley labor act. Only a few people turned out to listen to him. But Nixon, a champion debater in high school and college, found

... knew son had it

Kennedy a tough opponent to handle. "Everyone expects me to wipe the floor with this guy," Nixon said before the first of the TV debates 13 years later, "but it's not going to be that easy."

Kennedy's impressive performance in the debates came as no surprise to people who have known him through the years. Paul Fay Jr. of San Francisco, who served in Kennedy's PT boat squadron in the South Pacific during the Second World War, says that the officers at his base used to gather in Kennedy's quarters every night to listen to him talk about world affairs, politics and the war.

"It was more fun than playing poker," Fay says. Although he is often tense and restrained while delivering a prepared speech before a large audience, Kennedy has always sparkled in the extemporaneous talk of a question-and-answer forum, such as that of the campaign debates. He can argue at length with a fast presentation of facts and figures on almost any subject that is thrown at him. In 1951, when Kennedy came to a television studio in Washington to make his first appearance on "Meet the Press," he confided to Lawrence Spivak, the producer of the show, that he was planning to run for the senate against Henry Cabot Lodge. Spivak advised him to wait for a few years.

Two Requisites

But after listening to Kennedy's adeptness in handling the varied questions from the "Meet the Press" panel, Spivak turned to Jack's administrative assistant, Ted Reardon, and said, "He could beat Lodge tomorrow."

The president-elect's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, says that the confident decisiveness and the extensive factual knowledge of current issues that his son displayed in the campaign debates are the main requisites of the presidency.

"I've seen the president's job from the inside and I know what it requires," says Joe Kennedy, who was one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's top aides. "You need a man in the White House with two things—wide factual knowledge and the ability to make decisions, and to make them stick."

GNUS IN NEWS WHEN GNU MEETS GNU

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The boys at the zoo let out a cheer; they're ready to spread the gnu frontier.

Latest dispatch from Griffith Park gnomes says that Mr. Boston, a 12-year-old gnu of the masculine gender, will soon meet three gnos of the tender gender. Object: matrimony.

Mr. Boston arrived Thursday from Fresno, Calif. The zoological society there has no lady gnos. Until Mr. Boston arrived, the zoo here had no males.

So, after a 15-day quarantine period, Mr. B will get a chance to woo a gnu or two.

Then, in a year or two, if off spring ensue, there'll be plenty of gnos for both the zoos.

Answer Saturday

Winnipeg Blue Bomber football star Gerry James expects to provide Victoria Cougars with a definite answer Saturday in regards to his playing for the Western Hockey League team. Victoria manager-coach George Agar said James was offered a contract Thursday.

Police Use Guns, Gas On Rioters

BRUSSELS (AP)—Wild rioting broke out in the big industrial city of Liege today. Police used guns, sabres and tear gas to hurl back striking demonstrators.

A policeman, a fireman, and at least six civilians were injured as about 1,000 strikers attacked a railway station, a post office, a fire truck and police cars.

The flareup in the industrial south came as the government claimed the 18-day-long strikes had collapsed in two of Belgium's nine provinces and socialist leaders tried to find a formula to end the costly walkouts.

The rioting in Liege erupted after a fiery speech by Andre Renard, union official and one of the prime leaders of the strikes against the government's austerity program.

Hurrying from the mass meeting when they heard Renard urge them to continue the strike, demonstrators smashed in the front of a new railway station. They hurled desks and equipment from the windows of a nearby post office.

GRENADES THROWN

Police charged in, tossing tear gas grenades, and the strikers fell back, hurling stones as they fled.

They overturned two police cars. One caught fire. A fireman was injured by a flying brick.

Mounted police charged the milling crowd with drawn sabres. A striker was knocked unconscious.

The main body of demonstrators then rallied and headed for the main business district.

Troops moved in carrying automatic weapons and opened fire, apparently at the ground.

A civilian fell with a leg wound.

Demonstrators advanced on the Liberal newspaper Le Meuse, which has opposed the strike. They smashed windows and hauled down a neon sign.

When demonstrators tried to fight their way into the newspaper office, police opened up again with tear gas. Tank trucks with high pressure hoses rumbled up and shot water on the demonstrators, who scattered.

Government spokesman Pierre Harmel said the strike is over in the provinces of Limbourg in the north and Luxembourg in the south and in the northern cities of Ostend and Alost.

Last Word to Nixon—It's 'Kennedy'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon had the last word today on the 1960 presidential election. The word was that he lost.

"I now declare John F. Kennedy elected President," Nixon told a joint session of the Senate and House after presiding over the official counting of the electoral vote.

Nixon proclaimed the news with good grace and, in the process of the counting, got some laughs.

Under the law, and constitution, it fell to Nixon to preside over the joint session.

The count came out as expected. There were 303 votes for Kennedy and his running mate Lyndon B. Johnson, and 219 for Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Nixon, with a smile that might have come harder a day or so after last Nov. 8, announced the totals and pronounced Kennedy and Johnson duly elected.

Mister Bennett's allus breakin' ground fer new projects, but somebody seems 'er shovel it back in when nobody's lookin'.

There's some doubt about what's goin' on in Laos. But what's goin' on anywhere 'er that matter?

What winter?

LAOS COMMISSION MAY RECONVENE

'STAND BY' LETT TOLD

By TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—British Columbia Supreme Court Chief Justice Sherwood Lett has been told to stand by for the possible reconvening of the three-nation Laos Peace Commission.

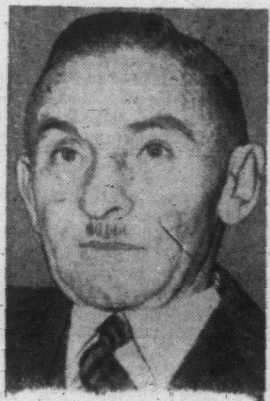

Mr. Justice Lett was a member of the original commission, which was disbanded in 1958.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Green suggested Thursday night the commission return to Laos informally to report on the situation. The commission was created by the Geneva conference on Indochina in 1954 to supervise the armistice. (See Page 6.)

It is understood the United States is now swinging around to the Canadian view that the supervisory commission is needed to cool off tempers in the Far East.

The Canadian government believes another big-power Geneva Conference on the Laotian problem should be convened, and must be convened, to ensure a lasting settlement.

"Until the big powers agree not to provide arms to the opposing factions there can be no permanent solution to the Laotian problem," said a government spokesman. "That can only be arranged through another Geneva convention."

Hair-Trigger Tension Marks Algerian Voting

ALGIERS (Reuters)—A Moslem voting official was assassinated today about 80 miles east of Algiers as three days of balloting began on President de Gaulle's Algerian self-determination referendum.

SHOW UNITY—DE GAULLE

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle appealed today to the French nation to show its unity by giving a massive vote of approval to his plan for Algerian self-determination.

Radio Signal Weak on Day Of Air Crash

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Airlines pilot testified today that on the day of the Dec. 16 collision of two airliners here which killed 134 persons, he had difficulty receiving one of the radio directional signals used by planes approaching New York.

Capt. Walter P. Moran said he encountered the trouble on the afternoon of Dec. 16, some five hours after the collision over Staten Island.

He said the Col's Neck signal over New Jersey first came in strong but then faded, and he had to use other radio directional signals.

But in villages within 60 miles of Algiers, the nationalist insurgents call for a boycott of polls by Moslems was largely ignored, a mid-day check showed.

The assassinated man was the president of a voting station at Herreta, near Setif, 80 miles east of here. Earlier, two attempts to stop a speech by de Gaulle on the referendum from being broadcast in Algeria failed.

Plastic charges were twice used to try to wreck the power line feeding a transmitter at nearby Ouled Fayed but the radio went on transmitting and de Gaulle's speech, his last on a campaign urging support for the referendum, was relayed in French, Arabic and Kabyl languages.

Balloting began slowly with only a trickle of voters turning up in rural areas. Nationalist insurgent leaders have called for a complete boycott on the referendum by Moslems.

A powerful plastic bomb Thursday night caused minor damage in the empty suburban home of ex-Algiers mayor Jacques Chevallier, a Liberal unpopular with de Gaulle opponents.

ARMY ON GUARD

French army units and marines stood by to guard against other trouble as voting started.

An estimated 40,000 troops and police were deployed in and around Algiers while a 16-ship French navy task force arrived Thursday off Mers-el-Kebir, near Oran, with a contingent of marines aboard.

Algerian voters were to vote in a referendum for or against President de Gaulle's proposed plan to allow Algeria to determine its own future after peace has returned to the troubled territory.

'GOV'T DID NOTHING TO EASE CRITICAL SITUATION'

Ruby McKay Tells Why She Quit

A public plea for the B.C. government to alleviate a "critical" situation in child welfare was made today by Ruby McKay, who resigned her top provincial post over lack of staff and money.

Miss McKay today told the Times why she quit as superintendent of child welfare for the provincial government.

She said "it was no longer possible, in the face of the government's restrictive policies to fulfil the responsibilities of superintendent of child welfare."

The job simply couldn't be done without more staff and money, she said.

Despite many personal pleas for help, the government did nothing, she said.

So today she asked British Columbians to "communicate their wishes to the government."

Miss McKay's work ended Dec. 31. After 16 years as superintendent, during which time she received international recognition for her work, she handed in her resignation last June.

There was no acknowledgment from the government, and her action did not come to light until October. Her successor, Mary King, was appointed on Dec. 3.

No one has been named to succeed Miss King as deputy superintendent.

Miss McKay, in her statement, said the few dedicated workers carrying on the program of child welfare have been so overloaded that necessary child care and adoptions could not be kept up.

"It was impossible to cope with the mounting number of families who needed help," she said.

GO TO GOV'T

Since her resignation became known, she said, she has received many letters from the public, and in view of their interest, she has called on them to press their protests to the government.

Miss McKay today will be honored at a special reception at University of B.C. in Vancouver. She will then take a holiday.

Although she has had a number of offers from outside B.C., Miss McKay has not decided on a new job. She says she does not intend to forsake child welfare.

Police Charge Occupant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

—A small fire that was believed to have been extinguished suddenly erupted into a general alarm blaze in the Thomas Hotel early today and at least 18 persons were killed. Fire officials said the toll may go higher.

Firemen said the blaze started in the first floor room of Raymond Gorman, 62, and ordered him arrested on suspicion of manslaughter.

Gorman and 37 other persons, including two policemen and firemen were treated at emergency hospitals for smoke inhalation and other injuries suffered as the fire turned the five-storey low-rate hotel into a huge Roman candle.

Most of the 15 occupants of the half-century-old building were elderly pensioners.

Gorman admitted freely to newsmen that he had been drinking the night before and "I was feeling no pain." Witnesses said the fire started when Gorman dropped a cigarette in his mattress.

Fire Chief William Murray said Gorman and a neighbor thought they had extinguished the fire and went back to sleep. But the mattress rekindled, causing the inferno, Murray said.

LEAP INTO NETS

As the blaze swept through the building, occupants leaped in night clothes into fire nets and down light wells onto mattresses hastily placed in position by the 200 firemen who responded to the blaze. Firemen helped others down ladders.

One man tried to lower himself from the fourth floor on knotted bed sheets. The improvised rope broke and he fell to the street, breaking his back and legs. "My dog didn't get out," he screamed.

A hero of the disaster was clerk Harry Gould, 71, who dashed from his second-floor room and banged on doors to rouse tenants.

STAYED AT TELEPHONE

Another hero was night clerk Clarence Broderick, 53, who stayed at the switchboard and called room after room, waking tenants.

One survivor, Mrs. Wanda Boyer, was taken to an emergency hospital carrying a box containing the suffocated body of her pet dog. She told how her husband, James, 48, lost his grip on a window sill and fell four floors.

"I tried to hold him, but I couldn't and he fell down the light well," she said.

Firemen broke into her room and led her safely down an aerial ladder.

Most of the dead were trapped in their rooms and killed when they inhaled gases.

Dief on Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker left Ottawa by car today for Montreal where he will board a plane for a holiday in Kingston, Jamaica.

'I Will So Do, The Lord Being My Helper'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

In a rich blend of color and tradition, Dr. William Robert Coleman today was consecrated Bishop of Kootenay in Christ Church Cathedral.

Twelve bishops, including three from the United States and one from the West Indies, performed the ancient ceremony of laying their hands upon the head of the newly-elected bishop, who succeeds the late Rt. Rev. Philip Beattie of Kelowna.

It was a solemn and moving occasion.

BLAZE OF COLOR

The high altar was a blaze of color as the bishops in their white and scarlet robes formed a semi-circle around the Archbishop's chair.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes headed a congregation of nearly 1,000 that included Anglicans from all districts of Victoria and many from Up-island churches.

Worshippers from non-Anglican churches also attended.

Archbishop Harold Sexton, as chief consecrator, wore the full ceremonial robes of his office and conducted the main part of the ceremony from the archbishop's chair immediately in front of the altar.

WARM GLOW

Christmas decorations added color to the scene. Illuminated Christmas trees twinkled on both sides of the altar, the altar rails were decked with flowers and a beautiful Nativity scene cast a soft, warm glow over the entrance to the church.

The service opened with a solemn procession around the aisles of the church led by the Crucifer during which the Litany was sung by choir and clergy.

The clergy then took places in the Nave on both sides of the main aisle. The archbishop performed the office of Holy Communion and the bishop-elect — a grave and earnest figure — was conducted to the chancel steps by his attendant priests.

The solemn ceremony of presenting him to the archbishop followed and the archbishop proceeded to examine him according to ritual.

'I WILL SO DO'

"Will you deny all ungodliness and worldly lusts, and live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world?"

"I will so do, the Lord being my helper."

"Will you shew yourself gentle, and be merciful for Christ's sake to poor and needy people, and to all strangers destitute of help?"

"I will so shew myself, by God's help."

After the laying on of hands, the Archbishop presented Bishop Coleman with the Bible. Then followed the delivery of the pastoral staff and the investiture with the pectoral cross and ring, the archbishop saying:

"Let this staff be sign to thee of the authority of the Great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls, in Whose Name and by Whose Grace thou wilt tend the flock committed to thy care."

BELLS PEAL

The cathedral bells pealed out over the city as the ceremony closed.

In his sermon Bishop R. S. Dean of the Cariboo said the essential character of a bishop must be that of a pastor.

"Without that the office is valueless," he said. "The title of pastor or shepherd is implied in the title of bishop."

SACRED TRUST

He continued: "William Coleman comes in our midst as a wise man who has obvious gifts of heart and soul with which the great Giver has endowed him... he accepts a sacred trust and a great challenge."

Dr. Coleman, 45, was formerly principal of Huron College, London, Ont. He will preach at the morning service in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday before taking up his new residence in Kelowna.

He is married and has three children.

MONTE ROBERTS

Ray Wormald, who drives a navy desk, has been going around with an incredulous expression on his handsome face ever since Boxing Day.

To understand this, you must know that Ray is an ardent fisherman.

He would rather fish than eat, and if he had to subsist entirely on the fish he caught, he probably wouldn't eat very much.

But no matter. Like all true fishermen, he fishes for the fishing, not the catching.

Which brings us to Boxing Day when, in the line of duty, Ray accompanied an RCN party to Race Rocks lighthouse, there to install a plaque marking the 100th anniversary of the day the beacon was first lit.

Looking about him with awe and admiration, Ray thought to himself, what an ideal place for a fisherman to live. A fisherman's Valhalla, Ray thought; waters teeming with salmon right at the doorstep.

Ray didn't keep his thoughts to himself, he confided them to David Odium who, for the past eight years, has been the keeper of Race Rocks lighthouse.

"I envy you, Mr. Odium," said Ray. "I take it for granted, of course, that your hobby is fishing?"

"Fishing, smishing," said Mr. Odium. "I wouldn't give you a lead sinker for all the fish in the sea. Let the fish stay in the sea, that's what I always say. I do not like fishing. Fishing is dull, unamusing, boring. I NEVER go fishing."

Hostily, Ray ventured to change the subject. "But you must have some hobby," he said. "To help while away the lonely hours. Woodworking, maybe? Burnt leatherwork? Crossword puzzles? Exotic forms of solitaire? Writing a book, perhaps?"

"Oh, I have a hobby," said Mr. Odium, gazing south and east across Juan de Fuca Strait.

"My hobby," said Mr. Odium, his eyes fixed hungrily on the Olympics, so close, but oh, so far away, "my hobby is mountain climbing."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Condition of six-year-old Charlene Stark, 4036 Granville, who suffered injuries Thursday when she walked into the path of a car, is satisfactory, officials of St. Joseph's Hospital reported today.

The young Saanich girl was thrown to the side of the road after walking into the path of a car driven by David F. Hilton, 1540 Charlton. The accident occurred on Hastings Street shortly after 3 p.m.

A young Victoria service station employee was given a suspended sentence of six months today in city police court for theft of automobile parts.

Magistrate William Ostler suspended the sentence on assurance from Robert S. Flegg, 3301 Wordsworth, that he sell his car.

Flegg had been accused of stealing a tire, a tube and a battery from his employer and Magistrate Ostler ascribed the underlying motive for the theft to his "infatuation with automobiles."

The $5,000-ton super-tanker, Harold H. Helm, arrived at Esquimalt Harbor today for annual survey, painting and any necessary repairs. The big ship was to be docked by Yarrow's Ltd. in government graving dock today.

Work is expected to take five days and employ about 200 men.

Annual business meeting of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society will be held in the public library Thursday, Jan. 12, at 8 p.m.

Election of officers will be held.

The intermediate group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet Saturday at 1.30 p.m. in the Provincial Museum where they will exhibit nature objects collected by themselves on weekly field trips.

Dale Carnegie Alumni Association will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Board Room, Black Ball Ferry Building, on Monday at 7.45 p.m. President Art Mebs will be in the chair.

City lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid was congratulated today for "ingenuity" in devising a temporary automatic control system for street lights which will save labor costs.

Public works committee recommended that council implement the suggestion immediately and lay off two operators and a relief operator employed at the sub-station at an annual saving of $12,200.

Mr. Reid stressed that the men would be re-employed on the city's current underground wiring program which will give them until mid-summer to find other work.

A radio valued at $120 was removed by thieves from the dashboard of a car owned by Harold Olafson, 4177 Shelbourne, city police reported today. The car was parked behind the curling rink.

The Capital City Branch, Color Photographic Association of Canada, will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at the home of A. T. Gray, 1507 Athlone Drive.

Color slides will be shown.

St. George's (Own) Scout Troop and Cub Pack will hold a bottle drive Saturday in the Ten Mile Point-Cadboro Bay area north of Cedar Hill Cross Road and east of Finnerty Road. Residents are asked to leave bottles on their doorsteps if they are going to be out. Proceeds from the drive will be used for troop and pack projects.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today turned down Victoria Mayor Percy Scurrah's request for grants in lieu of taxes of provincial buildings.

"We share all the costs of the municipalities and then give per capita grants," he said.

"We treat our capital city the best in Canada."

Mr. Bennett said the Capital Improvement District Commission has spent a great deal beautifying the area, and reminded municipal officials that in many places it is the presence of provincial government offices that stimulates business.

Woman Hit By Falling Plaster Chunk

A Victoria woman today was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital after being struck by a piece of plaster which fell from the third floor of the Balmoral block at the corner of Douglas and Fort.

The block is being demolished by Merchants Carriage of Vancouver to make room for a new bank.

Miss Ada Daly, 60, of 2494 Plumer, was struck on the head and knocked to the ground, police reported.

She was conscious when taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The accident occurred at 9 a.m.

City police ordered the contracting firm to stop work until adequate safety measures were completed.

Gorge Project Asked in Time For Centenary

Development of the Gorge into a parklike waterway connected by a canal to Esquimalt Harbor was recommended today as a centennial project by city public works committee.

Committee asked council to make the suggestion to the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee.

Besides marking the city's 100th anniversary next year, it would also provide considerable employment to relieve the jobless picture here.

Referring to unemployment, works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow described the federal winter works program as "a farce" because it did not make a dent in the unemployment situation. Ald. M. J. Griffin agreed but added that Victoria MP A. deB. McPhillips "doesn't seem to be aware of it."

City engineer J. C. Garnett said the winter works program did help create some jobs during the winter but it did not improve the year-round employment picture because civic governments only transferred some summer projects to the winter months.

Pipeline Call By Bennett For B.C. Oil

Major Firms Agree To Refine on Coast

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the major oil companies have agreed to refine B.C. crude oil on the coast and he has called for construction of a pipeline to bring it here as soon as possible.

He said he has asked pipeline companies to submit by Jan. 15 proposals for a route and costs.

He said the line does not necessarily have to be "all B.C." It could hook into the existing Trans-Mountain Pipeline from Alberta to Vancouver.

Mr. Bennett said he met the presidents of Imperial Oil, Shell, British American and Standard here Thursday, and they agreed to refine B.C. crude oil on the coast as soon as it is available.

In earlier talk of a pipeline, the B.C. government insisted it should be "all B.C."

HEAR ALL

However, Mr. Bennett says now: "We'll hear all proposals."

He said he hopes the pipeline will be started "as soon as the frost is out of the ground."

The oil will come from wells in the Peace River country, Trans-Prairie Pipelines is now completing a gathering system from these fields to take oil to Taylor and Dawson Creek. Another firm which had originally planned to do this was forced to pull out when the government refused to agree to its scheme of going into Alberta to join a pipeline there.

Mr. Bennett said the oil could be carried to Vancouver either through an entirely new line or by hooking into the Trans-Mountain Pipeline.

When the line is operating, it will be the first time B.C. crude will be available to motorists in the southern part of the province, the premier pointed out.

WHAT PRICE?

He said the two big factors to be met in building any sort of pipeline to bring oil to the coast are the wellhead price and the price to consumers in Vancouver.

But, he said, building a pipeline will greatly increase the interest in the Peace oilfields as well as boost employment and the economy generally.

City public works committee today recommended that council set parking meter rates at 10 cents an hour throughout the commercial core of the downtown area.

JACK MORGAN
... 12 years' experience

New Manager At Arena In Two Weeks

Memorial Arena's new manager will take over in two weeks, acting commission chairman W. F. Pinfold announced Thursday night.

The new arena head is Jack Morgan, who has been manager of the Nelson civic arena for the past 12 years "and has done a good job there," Mr. Pinfold said.

The Nelson arena was a multi-purpose operation including a theatre, curling rink and recreation centre.

Mr. Morgan's salary was not disclosed.

Out-going manager Joe Dukowski, who was paid $10,000 a year, will remain at the arena during the changeover.

Generous Old-Timer Passes In Saanich

A Saanich pioneer who a year ago donated 168 acres of land in the Saanich lake district to the provincial government as a park, Thomas Samuel Francis, 83, died today in Royal Oak Private Hospital.

His gift to the people of B.C. has been valued at close to $65,000.

Funeral service will be held in McCall's chapel Monday at 1.15 p.m.

BURNED OUT

After giving the land to the province, Mr. Francis who lived in a shack on the property, was burned out.

On his behalf the Thetis Park Sanctuary Association and the Victoria Natural History Society, with the aid of public subscription and volunteer labor, built a three-room home for the fire victim on Munn Road.

Mr. Francis, born in Saanich, raised cattle all his life. His father, who came around Cape Horn from England, married here and young Francis attended the pioneer Craigflower School.

mit only half an hour parking at a time.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said even if council approves the rate increase, the change will not be made immediately because new meters would have to be installed.

Under the "area vote" system, ratepayers in designated areas would be the only ones voting on a proposed civic off-street parking facility but they also would be the only ones that would have to make good any financial losses.

LEASE LAND

The longer lease period sought would enable the city to assemble land for a parking project and then lease it to a private developer.

Proposed establishment of a parking commission to supervise future development of off-street facilities will be discussed at the next meeting.

"UNPOPULAR" Doubling meter rates "may be unpopular but we've got to encourage private enterprise to build off-street facilities and nobody can do that now and still compete with the present five-cent per hour rate people get at the meters."

The downtown meters would allow a full hour of parking at a time but it would cost two nickels instead of one. However, the present five-cent meters on Broad Street would be retained although they permit only half an hour parking at a time.

NEW PINK LICENCE PLATES PROTESTED, PRAISED BY LONG-SUFFERING MOTORISTS

You'll Get Used to Them—Time Heals Everything!

By DON INGHAM

First reaction of most Victorians to the 1961 pink licence plates beginning to appear on city streets is that they are ghastly, frightful, unprintably awful, and an appalling offence to the sensibilities.

But pin the protesters down a bit—with judicious application of the boot, thumb-screw, rack and garrote—and one finds that about half of them really don't mind the coral, shrimp, shocking pink plates.

Traffic Inspector Brooke Douglass of the city police said "the ladies will think the plates are out of this world."

"Seriously, though, I can't see too much wrong with them," he said. "The pink is a little overpowering, but we'll get used to them. They'll be okay."

Decorator Dave Peirce said the pink background and purply-maroon figures make "a really charming combination for Ladies' powder room. I don't think they are as clear as they could be."

Car salesman Jack Harris gave them full marks.

"They are easy to see and the figures are clear," he said. "No matter what color combination was used someone would object to it."

His colleague, Ken Alger, said bluntly: "They just aren't the proper colors for a liege."

Ladies' reaction was mixed.

"Aren't they horrible!" said Times fashion editor Nona Damaske.

"They'll match my pink car and I think they're dandy," said Mrs. Jack Edwards. Said a high-ranking RCMP official: "They will take some getting used to. Although the colors are a little odd, I think they are fine. The figures stand out well and that is what concerns us most of all."

Police Use
Guns, Gas
On Rioters

BRUSSELS (AP)—Wild rioting broke out in the big industrial city of Liege today. Police used guns, sabres and tear gas to hurl back striking demonstrators.

A policeman, a fireman, and at least six civilians were injured as about 1,000 strikers attacked a railway station, a post office, a fire truck and police cars.

The flareup in the industrial south came as the government claimed the 18-day-long strikes had collapsed in two of Belgium's nine provinces and socialist leaders tried to find a formula to end the costly walkouts.

The rioting in Liege erupted after a fiery speech by Andre Renard, union official and one of the prime leaders of the strikes against the government's austerity program.

Hurrying from the mass meeting when they heard Renard urge them to continue the strike, demonstrators smashed in the front of a new railway station. They hurled desks and equipment from the windows of a nearby post office.

GRENADES THROWN

Police charged in, tossing tear gas grenades, and the strikers fell back, hurling stones as they fled.

They overturned two police cars. One caught fire. A fireman was injured by a flying brick.

Mounted police charged the milling crowd with drawn sabres. A striker was knocked unconscious.

The main body of demonstrators then rallied and headed for the main business district.

Troops moved in carrying automatic weapons and opened fire, apparently at the ground. A civilian fell with a leg wound.

THE KENNEDY STORY

This is the second in a series by correspondent and author Joe McCarthy from his book, "The Remarkable Kennedys." It gives a complete picture of President-elect John Fitzgerald Kennedy up to the moment of election, Nov. 8, 1960. The series is continuing in The Times daily.

By JOE MCCARTHY

When the smoke of the campaign battle cleared after the election of John F. Kennedy as president of the United States, political experts tried to explain why so many of the nation's voters had changed their minds about the boyish-looking 43-year-old candidate who had seemed only a few months back too young and too inexperienced for the White House.

Maturity Revealed

Not that the debates did Richard Nixon serious harm, but they showed Kennedy's quickness of mind and confident decisiveness and made him seem as mature and as well-informed as the Californian on foreign and domestic issues.

This demolished what had been up until September the strongest argument against Kennedy—his youth and "inexperience." One of the Republicans who had been doubtful about the wisdom of entering the debates was Nixon himself.

His campaign advisors were sure that he would show up Kennedy, but Nixon remembered clearly a debate between himself and Kennedy back in 1947, when they were freshmen Congressmen.

'Not That Easy'

The two young members of the House of Representatives traveled to Pennsylvania to argue the Taft-Hartley labor act. Only a few people turned out to listen to him. But Nixon, a champion debater in high school and college, found Kennedy a tough opponent to handle.

"Everyone expects me to wipe the floor with this guy," Nixon said before the first of the TV debates 13 years later, "but it's not going to be that easy."

Kennedy's impressive performance in the debates came as no surprise to people who have known him through the years. Paul Fay Jr. of San Francisco, who served in Kennedy's PT boat squadron in the South Pacific during the Second World War, says that the officers at his base used to gather in Kennedy's quarters every night to listen to him talk about world affairs, politics and the war.

"It was more fun than playing poker," Fay says. "Although he is often tense and restrained while delivering a prepared speech before a large audience, Kennedy has always sparkled in the extemporaneous talk of a question-and-answer forum, such as that of the campaign debates. He can argue at length with a fast presentation of facts and figures on almost any subject that is thrown at him."

In 1951, when Kennedy came to a television studio in Washington to make his first appearance on "Meet the Press," Continued on Page 7

VANCOUVER (CPI)—A $53,000,000 capital expenditures program was announced today by the British Columbia Electric Company.

President Harry L. Purdy said the program will provide millions of man hours of employment and will ensure a plentiful supply of electricity and natural gas to homes, firms and industries.

He said more than $39,500,000, about 75 per cent of the total, will be used to make more electricity available for the future and to provide new facilities to bring power to consumers on the lower mainland and southern Vancouver Island.

The biggest single expenditure would be $13,300,000 on the company's Burrard thermal generating station in Vancouver's Burrard Inlet. First of six 211,000 horsepower generating units would be placed in service early next year.

EIGHTEEN DIE

FIRE ERUPTSSTANDBY ORDER TO JUSTICE LETT

By TOM GOULD

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—British Columbia Supreme Court Chief Justice Sherwood Lett has been told to stand by for the possible reconvening of the three-nation Laos Peace Commission.

Mr. Justice Lett was a member of the original commission, which was disbanded in 1958.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Green suggested Thursday night the commission return to Laos informally to report on the situation. The commission was created by the Geneva conference on Indochina in 1954 to supervise the armistice. (See Page 6.)

It is understood the United States is now swinging around to the Canadian view that the supervisory commission is needed to cool off tempers in the Far East.

The Canadian government believes another big-power Geneva Conference on the Laotian problem should be convened, and must be convened, to ensure a lasting settlement.

"Until the big powers agree not to provide arms to the opposing factions there can be no permanent solution to the Laotian problem," said a government spokesman. "That can only be arranged through another Geneva convention."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A small fire that was believed to have been extinguished suddenly erupted into a general alarm blaze in the Thomas Hotel early today and at least 18 persons were killed. Fire officials said the toll may go higher.

Firemen said the blaze started in the first floor room of Raymond Gorman, 62, and ordered him arrested on suspicion of manslaughter.

Gorman and 37 other persons, including two policemen and firemen were treated at emergency hospitals for smoke inhalation and other injuries suffered as the fire turned the five-storey low-rate hotel into a huge Roman candle.

Most of the 150 occupants of the half-century-old building were elderly pensioners.

Gorman admitted freely to newsmen that he had been drinking the night before and "I was feeling no pain." Witnesses said the fire started when Gorman dropped a cigarette in his mattress.

Fire Chief William Murray said Gorman and a neighbor thought they had extinguished the fire and went back to sleep. But the mattress rekindled, causing the inferno, Murray said.

LEAP INTO NETS

As the blaze swept through the building, occupants leaped in night clothes into fire nets and down light wells onto mattresses hastily placed in position by the 200 firemen who responded to the blaze. Firemen helped others down ladders.

One man tried to lower himself from the fourth floor on knotted bed sheets. The improvised rope broke and he fell to the street, breaking his back and legs. "My dog didn't get out," he screamed.

BENNETT PUTS
'IF' ON PACT
WITH OTTAWA

B.C. will go along with the Columbia River scheme with the federal government as long as it can guarantee power will be available in the Vancouver area at 3.77 mills, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today. He was commenting on his order for a full investigation of Peace and Columbia River costs and benefits by the B.C. Energy Board.

"Of course we won't hold up signing the agreement with the federal government," he said, "if power can be delivered to Vancouver at the price promised by Fulton of 3.77 mills." He referred to a Times editorial of Thursday which said Federal Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton had pledged last year that Columbia power could be delivered at that price. Asked if he thinks such a guarantee would be forthcoming from Ottawa, Mr. Bennett replied: "I wouldn't think they'd refuse."

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Airlines pilot testified today that on the day of the Dec. 16 collision of two airliners here which killed 134 persons, he had difficulty receiving one of the radio directional signals used by planes approaching New York.

Capt. Walter P. Moran said he encountered the trouble on the afternoon of Dec. 16, some five hours after the collision over Staten Island.

He said the Colt's Neck signal over New Jersey first came in strong but then failed and he had to use other radio directional signals.

Tension Marks
Algeria Voting

ALGIERS (Reuters)—A Moslem voting official was assassinated today about 80 miles east of Algiers as three days of balloting began on President de Gaulle's Algerian self-determination referendum.

But in villages within 80 miles of Algiers, the nationalist insurgents call for a boycott of polls by Moslems was largely ignored, a mid-day check showed.

The assassinated man was the president of a voting station at Herreta, near Setif, 80 miles east of here. Earlier, two attempts to stop a speech by de Gaulle on the referendum from being broadcast in Algeria failed.

Plastic charges were twice used to try to wreck the power line feeding a transmitter at nearby Ouled Fayed but the radio went on transmitting and de Gaulle's speech, his last on a campaign urging support for the referendum, was relayed in French, Arabic and Kabyl languages.

Balloting began slowly with only a trickle of voters turning up in rural areas. Nationalist insurgent leaders have Continued on Page 7

'GOV'T DID NOTHING TO EASE CRITICAL SITUATION'

Ruby McKay Tells Why She Quit

A public plea for the B.C. government to alleviate a "critical" situation in child welfare was made today by Ruby McKay, who resigned her top provincial post over lack of staff and money.

Miss McKay today told the Times why she quit as superintendent of child welfare for the provincial government.

She said "It was no longer possible in the face of the government's restrictive policies to fulfill the responsibilities of superintendent of child welfare."

The job simply couldn't be done without more staff and money, she said. Despite many personal pleas for help, the government "did nothing," she said.

So today she asked British Columbians to "communicate their wishes to the government."

Miss McKay's work ended Dec. 31. After 16 years as superintendent, during which time she received international recognition for her work, she handed in her resignation last June.

There was no acknowledgment from the government, and her action did not come to light until October. Her successor, Mary King, was appointed on Dec. 3.

No one has been named to succeed Miss King as deputy superintendent.

Miss McKay, in her statement, said the few dedicated workers carrying on the program of child welfare have been so overloaded that necessary child care and adoptions could not be kept up. "It was impossible to cope with the mounting number of families who needed help," she said.

Since her resignation became known, she said, she has received many letters from the public and in view of their interest, she has called on them to press their protests to the government.

Miss McKay today will be honored at a special reception at University of B.C. in Vancouver. She will then take a holiday.

Although she has had a number of offers from outside B.C. Miss McKay has not decided on a new job. She says she does not intend to forego child welfare.
